VICTOR IN BERKELEY RACE: Warren Widener, elected mayor of Berkeley, Calif., and his wife receive congratulatory calls after final results were announced in mayoralty race last week.

Kuykendall proposed for Federal Judgeship

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The name of Judge Rufus C. Kuykendall, Indianapolis, Ind.,

RUFUS C. KUYKENDALL
judge of Marion County Superior Court Room Six, has been mentioned in recent weeks in connection with the nomination of a Presidentially appointed judgeship.

Seemingly, colleagues of Judge Kuykendall or stalwarts of the Republican part on the local, state and national levels have recommended Judge Kuykendall for consideration as a potential candidate for the judgeship. A resume of his legal activities or accomplishments and past performances in support of his party has been forwarded to local concerned administrative agencies.

Longer than two score years Judge Kuykendall has been active in Republican politics, on the community, state and national levels. He has served as Legal Director, U.S. Commission on Civil Rights and lately, 1970, as a presidential officer of the U.S. State Department's Advisory Council on African Affairs.

Former President Eisenhower named Judge Kuykendall to the position of

The Justice Department picked Berry, who has presented several government civil rights cases in Southern states prosecutions. He appeared before the Southern Indiana District Court Friday and was admitted to practice.

The nine reformatory employees, eight guards and a plumber pressed into service as a guard, were accused in a shooting during a Sept. 26, 1969, disturbance by black prisoners. Two died and 46 were wounded.

The defendants pleaded innocent last Friday before U.S. District Judge S. Hugh Dillin

Services pending for car accident victim

Funeral services are pending at the Gill Funeral Home, Muncie, Ind., for a 24-year-old woman fatally injured in a two-car accident Monday at 30th and Capitol.

The victim, Mrs. Linda Martin Coleman, 3444 N. Penn., will be buried pending the arrival of her husband, Sgt. Anderson Coleman, who is in the Air Force stationed in Vietnam.

Mrs. Coleman was in a car driven by Rudolph F. Smith, 24, 1907 Churchman, who was reported "critical but holding his own" in St. Vincent's Hospital Wednesday.

It took firm and wreckers one hour to remove Mrs. Coleman's body from the wreckage. She died minutes after members of Fire Rescue Squad 14 reached the scene. The car was crushed against a traffic light pole and firemen were forced to almost dismantle the vehicle before reaching the body.

According to witnesses, the car driven by Mr. Smith south on Capitol ran a red light and was struck on the left front by an auto operated west on 30th Street by Leon

HOLD 19-YEAR-OLD YOUTH IN GORY DEATH OF HIS UNCLE

Reformatory parolee, 20, also implicated

A 19-year-old Southside youth, who according to police, was arrested and charged last year with stabbing his mother, was implicated Tuesday in the stabbing death early Friday of his 61-year-old uncle during a robbery following a poker game in the victim's home.

A second man, who has been identified as a friend of the victim's nephew, was arrested just two blocks from the murder scene shortly after the stabbing.

JAMES DANIELS

Det. Sgt. James Parnell of the police homicide division identified the accused assailants as Phillip Eugene O'Neal, 19, 3536 E. Orange, nephew of the victim, and James W. Daniel, 20, 1132 S. Earhart.

The victim was identified as Walter Squires, of 1138 S. Earhart, who was described as a small time gambler and numbers writer. Squires died about four hours after the 3:30 a.m. stabbing at Marion Co. General Hospital.

Daniels was arrested shortly after the victim was discovered in a pool of blood in the living room of his home. Det. Sgt. James Parnell of the police homicide division said Daniel, still covered with blood, was nabbed as he rode in a cab—just two blocks from the murder scene. He was

Wealthy Chicago mystery man freed in Angela Davis case

NEW YORK — David Poindexter, the wealthy Chicago mystery-man who is alleged to have helped black militant Angela Davis during her alleged flight to avoid arrest on a California warrant charging conspiracy to murder, won acquittal Monday on a federal charge of harboring a fugitive.

"This was a minor skirmish in a big war," Mr. Poindexter told newsmen. "The major battle is in California over Angela."

The jury of seven men and five women returned the verdict of not guilty after deliberating for two and a half hours at the end of the week-long trial.

"Thank you, thank you very much," he exclaimed after the jury had rendered the decision.

The broad-shouldered, fashionably dressed, 37-year-old defendant, who could have received up to five years in prison if he had been found guilty, shook hands happily with each of the smiling jurors as they stepped from the jury box.

Mr. Poindexter went on trial last Monday on a charge that he had "harbored and concealed" Miss Davis while knowing that federal warrants had been issued for her arrest. Federal warrants for Miss Davis were issued last August when she was accused of fleeing guns for a shooting incident that resulted in four deaths, including a judge, at a courthouse in California. Judge John M. Cannella said in his instructions to the jury that "the very crux of this case" was whether Mr. Poindexter knew about the federal warrants.

Noting that Mr. Poindexter was not accused of participating in the shootings, the judge told the jury that the one-court indictment was limited to the allegation that he

Dr. William C. Baker announces candidacy as councilman-at-large

Dr. William (Bill) C. Baker, prominent dentist with offices at 17 W. 22nd, has announced his candidacy for councilman-at-large on the Democratic ticket in the May 4 primary.

The Terre Haute native, specializing in oral surgery, has been active in community and political affairs since opening his practice here in 1956.

In announcing his intentions, the Democratic hopeful issued 12 "commandments" he plans to follow if elected to the city-county council. They are:

1. "Create, motivate and stimulate more community spirit, pride and cooperation through individual and group activities."

2. "Bring about the enforcement of housing and zoning

4 charged in plot to kill Mayor Daley, Rev. Jackson

CHICAGO—Four black men have been arrested and charged here with attempting to hire other persons to murder Mayor Richard J. Daley and the Rev. Jesse Jackson, it was disclosed Monday.

The assassination plot came to light when two of those allegedly involved were arraigned in Felony Court.

Judge Hechinger set bond for Earl Preston Dillard, 37, and Howard Harris, 33, both unemployed laborers, at $5,000. Police said the pair are members of ultra-militant groups. The specific charges were solicitation to commit murder of Daley and the Rev. Mr. Jackson.

Both men were arrested last Saturday. The two others arrested on April 5, the day before the mayoral election were Charles R. Whitside, 35, and Terry Simmons, 38. Both Simmons and Whitside have also been identified as members of militant organizations. All of the arrests were made

Jewell family has special affection for residents of the Hoosier Capitol

Mrs. Mary Jewell and her family have developed a special affection for the people of Indianapolis.

As a result of stories and pictures published each week, recently in The Recorder, the name Mary Jewell has become a household word in the Indianapolis community.

Many, many people know that only a few short months ago Mary was doomed to die due to chronic renal disease and resultant uremic poisoning.

Had Mary's condition occurred two or three years earlier, a home would have been broken and nine children left motherless.

It's been said time and time

Rev. B. T. Almon, Canaan church pastor, dies at 65

Final rites for the Rev. Booker T. Almon, pastor of Canaan Baptist Church, will be held at 11:00 a.m. Saturday at Corinthian Baptist Church, 721 E. North. He died early Sunday morning at his home, 2309 N. Parker.

Rev. Almon, 65, came to Indianapolis in the early 1950's and assumed the pastorate of New Baptist Church in 1953 and remained there until he organized Canaan in 1956.

The church was located at 2611 Annette until recently. The congregation had been meeting at 2165 N. Capitol, home of the Ministers Fore-sight.

Born the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Almon at Franklin County, Alabama, Rev. Almon began his career in the ministry at Trinity Baptist Church in Alabama.

He attended Moody Seminary in Chicago and moved from there to Wyoming, where he pastored his first church. From 1946 to 1949 he pastored Tabernacle

Adam Powell leaving Harlem for Binimi

NEW YORK — Adam Clayton Powell, the former longtime Congressman whose original public platform was the Abyssinian Baptist Church in Harlem, Easter Sunday announced that he is resigning as pastor of the church.

Powell, 62, took over the pulpit from his father in 1937. He told the 2,500 worshippers attending services that his retirement would be effective Friday and said he would make Binimi, in the Bahamas his permanent home.

Powell has spent much of the past several years in Binimi and has lived there almost exclusively since his defeat in last year's Democratic primary by Charles Rangel, who now represents the 16th District, Powell's seat for 12 terms.

Demos slated convention to be held April 24

Marion County Democratic chairman, Anthony M. Malo announced last week-end that the county slating convention of his party for mayorality and council-at-large candidates will be held April 24.

Also precinct committeemen and vice-committeemen will select organizational slated candidates for one Criminal Court judge and one state representative nomination.

Each candidate entering the slating convention will be assessed 10 per cent of the salary for the office he seeks with losing candidates receiving a 50 per cent refund. The place or time of the slating convention was not announced, other than May 24.

However, "mini" slating conventions throughout scattered individual districts for some of the 25 district councilmen to be elected from separate districts will be held on Sunday, May 25.

Social problems to play big role in '71 elections

WASHINGTON—For the last 18 months, the economy, the war in Indochina and several associated issues have tended to dominate the American political dialogue. But this year's municipal elections, the first of which took place last week, are likely to thrust back into the foreground the questions of racial relations and social policy that loomed large in the voting for mayors in 1967 and 1969 in such cities as Detroit, Cleveland, Gary and Los Angeles. From this point of view, one of the most interesting of last week's results was that in Kansas City, Mo., the nation's 26th largest city, the Mayor Joseph H. McDowell, a 63-year-old Democrat seeking a second term lost by 3,000 votes to Richard F. Walsh, 34, a Republican.

Mayor McDowell's enemies opening described him as "Old Black Joe" during the campaign, asserting that he had done too much for Negroes and not enough for the city's Slavs and other ethnic minorities. Mr. Walsh promised, if elected, to dismiss Boston Daniels, a black McDowell appointee, as Kansas City's police chief.

According to the 1970 census, 112,005 of Kansas City's population of 507,087 are black.

The racial issue was less overt in the elections in Berkeley, Calif., where two whites Dairy products plant, world's largest, planned by Kroger Co.

The vice president, John A. Cornett of the Kroger Company's dairy foods division, announced last week that the company plans to build the world's largest milk and ice cream processing plant in this city.

The $3 million project, a 180,000 square foot facility is scheduled for completion by the spring of 1972 and will be erected on a site at English Ave. and Shortridge Rd. The Glenroy Construction Company of the city is the general contractor with sub-contracts awarded to another local firm, Joe Norman Contracting Company. Cornett observed that the Kroger Company decided to replace and expand its dairy operations here because of the city's strategic location affording convenient accessibility to the midwestern area served by Kroger, good labor supply and excellent sources of high quality milk.

St. Rita's to host conference on the deaf

The sixth annual International Catholic Deaf Association Midwest Conference will be held Saturday, April 24 at St. Rita's Church, 1831 Martindale. Serving as convention chairman will be Robert Downing Jr., and Irene Hodock. Host chapter will be the Indianapolis Chapter 38 of the International Catholic Deaf Association. Mrs. Frances Preston of Joliet, Ill., national secretary of the International Catholic Deaf Association will preside at the one-day conference which will start at 1 p.m. The representatives of the 10 dioceses in the Midwest area will have table group discussions on any special problems in their chapters, motions to be brought to the Baltimore convention which will be from July 11 to 17, and on questions which may come up from the audience.

Black advertising firm president to address seminar

Raymond A. League, president of Zebra Associates of New York, will be the keynote speaker at a seminar on the "Growing Black Community Market," Monday, April 19, at the Hilton Hotel. William H. Hardy, president of William H. Hardy Unlimited, Inc., announced the seminar, scheduled from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Zebra Associates is the largest black advertising agency in the nation.

"Purpose of the seminar is to release information on the seemingly unknown purchasing power of the black community," Hardy stated, and to present an interpretation of current attitude disclosed by black experts."

League is originally from Indianapolis. His career in advertising prior to forming Zebra included supervisory positions in both the administrative and creative areas. For two years he served as account executive at J. Walter Thompson advertising agency on the R. C. A. Sales Corporation account.

The seminar is directed toward business people in management, advertising, personnel, sales, marketing and public relations.

MARY JEWELL ARTIFICIAL KIDNEY FUND

I am happy to contribute $..... to the Mary Jewell Artificial Kidney Fund.

before but bears repeating, thanks to modern medicine, physicians' skill and the Methodist Hospital's home dialysis program, Mary's life has been spared and her family kept in tact — and she continues to be a homemaker.

Others, too, can take credit for the miraculous saving of a life — the hundreds who have responded to an appeal by The Recorder for contributions to help defray the cost of her catastrophic disease.

The story has not been told however — and many, perhaps from curiosity, possibly pure interest, or by the sheer desire to be knowledgeable — have asked, how has Mary's life been saved?

By the artificial kidney, to be sure — but how does the miracle device work? How does it keep her alive?

Mary, whose kidneys had to be removed, has two "shunts" imbedded in her right arm. These merely are external outlets — one from an artery and the other from a vein, to which long, plastic tubes are connected. The arterial tube is attached to one end of the kidney and the venous tube to the other. These tubes permit Mary's blood to leave her body, pass through the machine and return after some of the impurities have been removed. (By the way, the flat device lying across the top of the machine is the kidney.)

As blood passes through the kidney over sheets of membrane, the impurities seep through minute pores too small to permit the loss of blood cells. The impurities are then washed away by a concentration solution which has a dual purpose. The other is to replace certain essentials in the blood.

The machine which supports the kidney contains such important equipment as a heater to keep the blood at body temperature while outside the system, a concentrator mixer and pump and various monitors which keep the patient and the "back up" informed, and a set of alarms if anything undesirable develops.

This simplified explanation will help the reader to understand how during three 10-hour periods at night during the week, impurities are removed from Mary's system and she is kept alive.

At the same time, she is rehabilitated so that she can continue to care for her husband and a large family of children.

Vast amounts of supplies, also a part of the cost of maintaining life, are used from month to month. Every six weeks the patient returns to the hospital for consultations with the physicians and check-ups, at which time the warehouse is visited and a carload of supplies picked up to keep the artificial kidney in operation until the next visit.

As pointed out in The Recorder from week to week, hemodialysis — the technical name for the use of an artificial kidney — is expensive. Hospitalization, the artificial kidney and the supplies used in connection with it cost far more than the average individual or family can "swing." It's not a matter of just a few dollars — or even a few thousand. It's several!

This is the reason that The Recorder is offering its readers and other members of the community an opportunity to help the Jewells, who reside at 831 Eugene St., with their burden — to help keep the mother alive and the home together. To simplify contributing, a coupon appears in the paper which can be mailed with a check to The Recorder. PREVIOUSLY REPORTED $7,387.00

poker game in Squires' home. Det. Sgt. Parnell said he began searching for another motive after it was learned that the victim had more than $100 dollars on him when a poker game in which both accused assailants had participated had broken up shortly before the stabbing took place. Uniform officers found less than $2 on Squires when he was rushed to General Sgt. Parnell said he settled on a robbery motive and O'Neal was arrested Tuesday at his home.

A bloodstained butcherknife was found in the kitchen of Daniels residence. Police laboratory technicians are making blood comparison tests on the long-bladed knife.

According to Parnell, both suspects have verbally admitted their part in the stabbing but have denied having robbed the victim.

"The veteran homicide officer described the slaying as one of the most sadistic he had encountered during his years on the police department."

"Why, they even told me that they took turns stabbing Squires," Sgt. Parnell told The Recorder.

An autopsy performed at the General Hospital Morgue revealed the victim had been stabbed a total of 41 times. The detective said that O'Neal had been arrested about seven months ago on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill after he stabbed his mother in the arm during an argument.

"She refused to prosecute him and he was released on the assault charge," Sgt. Parnell commented.

Daniel was released last November from the Indiana Reformatory where he had served a little more than a year of a 1-10 years sentence after being convicted in connection with a robbery.

Sgt. Parnell said two knives were used in the stabbing but that only one has been recovered.

Daniel appeared Saturday in Municipal Court 10. The murder charge was continued until May 11, because the suspect was not represented by an attorney at that time.

O'Neal, accompanied by a lawyer, appeared in Court 10 on Wednesday and his case was bound over for action by the Marion County Grand Jury. Both suspects were ordered held without bond in the Marion County Jail.

Former local minister elected to St. Louis, Mo. school board

REV. JAMES L. CUMMINGS

ST. LOUIS — The Rev. Mr. James L. Cummings, former Indianapolis minister and City Council member last week was elected to the St. Louis Board of Education.

The Rev. Mr. Cummings, formerly pastored Trinity CME Church at 23rd and Martindale, before assuming the pastorate of Lane Tabernacle CME Church in 1966.

Rev. Cummings pastored Trinity CME Church for 12 years before being assigned to the St. Louis Church. He served as the president of the interracial and inter-faith Indiana Ministerial Association and as a member of the board of directors of the Church Federation of Greater Indianapolis. In 1961 he became the first Negro to serve on the Indianapolis Board of Zoning Appeals. He was elected to the Indianapolis City Council in 1963. Since moving to St. Louis, Rev. Cummings has continued a wide-range of service with civic and social organizations in that city.

At present he serves with the St. Louis Human Development Corp., is a member of the board of directors of the Ferrer Home for the Aged, a member of the board of Eden Theological Seminary and as a board member of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, the governing body for the St. Louis anti-poverty program.

In 1970 he was the recipient of the Daniel D. Bowles Award, presented to him by the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity. First appointed to the St. Louis School Board last October, Rev. Mr. Cummings, last week, was elected to a full four-year term. He joins three other blacks on the 12-member board.

Central State U. Alumni host to regional confab

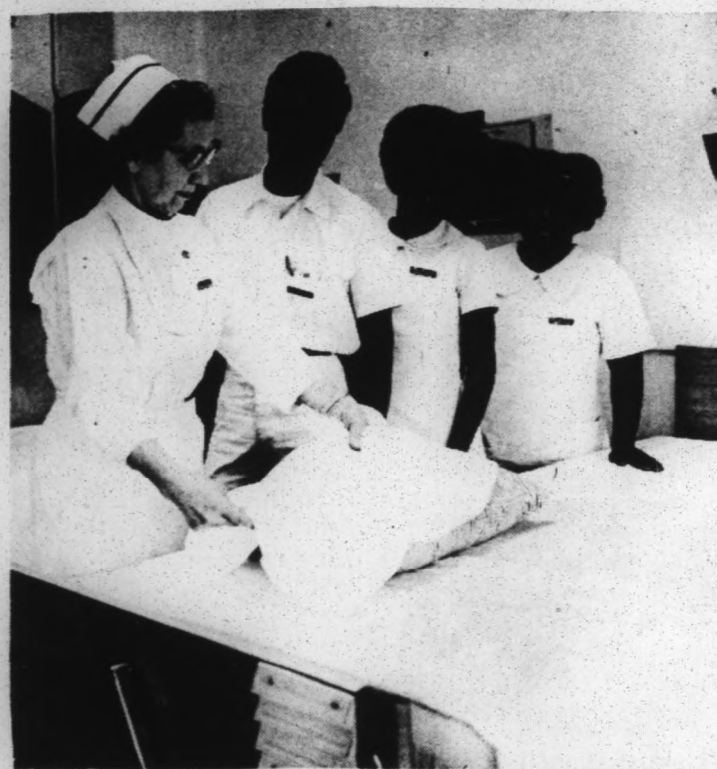

Approximately 400 persons attending the Ohio Central State University Alumni conference, April 9-11 heard Julian Bond speak last Saturday afternoon in the Hilton Hotel. Mr. Bond, age 31, widely-heralded Georgia legislator, said that mothers receiving Aid to Dependent Children benefits should be paid not to produce children, just as farmers are paid not to produce crops.

Farmers have been given free land and low-interest rate loans to enable them to buy farm land and machinery. Bond stated that the government also has furnished them farm agents to teach them how to operate machinery and rotate their crops. Now the farmers get paid to sit back and produce nothing.

Comparing the plight of Negro people of our country to that of Africans exploited by European nations, he observed "we are first in war, last in peace and seldom in the hearts of our countrymen."

Again he observed Negro people are treated as citizens in the narrow sense that they must meet certain obligations to the state, without receiving all of the corresponding benefits of citizenship.

Other speakers included the national Alumni president, Mrs. Nancy T. Bolden; Dr. Lewis A. Jackson, president of Central State; Walter G. Sellers, director of development and Alumni affairs and officials of the local chapter or host to the conference. Delegates from 40 states attended the conference.

Local leader of Boy Scouts awarded St. George Medal

A staff member of the Central Mailing Room, U.S. Army Finance Center, Denwood Abernathy, 3130 N. Arsenal Ave. in recent weeks was awarded the St. George Medal. The citation bestowed upon him by Archbishop George J. Biskup is the highest Roman Catholic award made for services to boys.

Longer than 30 years Mr. Abernathy as an Adult Leader has devoted considerable time as a volunteer to Boy Scout interests or activities. He is presently serving as an administrative assistant District Commissioner for the Northeast District, Central, Indiana Council.

He has served as director of Scouting in the State of Indiana for A.M.E. Church Conference, with the Civil Defense Communication Group and is vice president of the Douglass Little League. He has been active as a leader of the Little League 16 years. Among other Scouting honors he has been awarded the Silver Beaver (highest Council Award); the Arrowhead (Scout Commissioner) and the Scoutmasters' Key.

He has been a resident of the city since 1937 and at one time he and his wife, Mrs. (Mary) Abernathy worked in several capacities for The Indianapolis Recorder. He was employed in circulation and advertising and his wife as a secretary and reporter. He published his own newspaper, The Eastside Inquirer, at one time. After leaving the Recorder he acquired his license, and became a real-estate broker. During WW II era he was employed by the Packard Manufacturing Company, making

Tree planting project planned

The Hillsdale Landscape & Nurseries Co., 7800 N. Shadeland Ave., has donated 2,000 trees to a beautification program which is sponsored by Citizens Forum. It was announced this week by Mrs. Mattie Coney, founder of the organization.

The organization in a beautification program, Saturday, April 17, will plant 2,000 flowering dogwood trees. A caravan of likely 300 persons is scheduled to visit the nursery to receive the trees. The trees will be planted in school yards, church yards, traffic islands and other areas.

Members of the caravan will include block club members, school children and other groups. Mayor Richard G. Lugar and representatives of the Metropolitan Park Department are scheduled to participate in the program.

Hawkins announces names of campaign co-chairmen

Grant W. Hawkins, Six-District candidate for the Democratic nomination to the new City County Council, this week announced that Miss Marion Barton, sister to former Mayor John J. Barton, and Mrs. Daisy Lloyd had been appointed co-chairman of his campaign committee.

In announcing the committee appointments, Hawkins, longtime local businessman and a former member of the Indianapolis School Board, said Tuesday, "I do not have the support of the Marion County Democratic Committee as does my primary opponent so it is imperative that I take my campaign to the people."

The well-known Indianapolis native said he is willing to take on the organization backed candidate because he sincerely believes the voters will judge him on his record of solid accomplishments.

"I stand on my record of fair-mindedness in all my endeavors at public service and

I also believe these traits were most evident during my tenure of service as a member of the Indianapolis Board of Public Works and again during my service on the Metropolitan Planning Commission.

Hawkins admitted that at this point he feels he is running slightly behind his opposition but added optimistically that he feels he stands an excellent chance of emerging victorious from the primary if his many friends and advocates will continue to take the issues to the people.

"I have an extremely high regard for the individual voter and am convinced that, when confronted with the facts, they will render the correct decision at the ballot box," Hawkins emphasized.

He promised, if nominated in the May 4, primary and successful in the November election to "diligently fight the battle of all the people in my district without regard for partisan politics or political favoritism."

Volunteer 'drive on cancer' to be conducted Apr. 19-22

More than 20,000 volunteers will launch the door-to-door campaign to bring timely cancer information to every household in Marion County between April 19 and 22 as the climax to the American Cancer Society's April Crusade.

Organized into township divisions with captains who keep in touch with the residential volunteers, the Crusade also hopes to raise some $60,000 more than 1/3 of the total goal of $150,000 that has been pledged by Marion County Unit to help "wipe out cancer in YOUR lifetime."

The Residential Drive is directed by Terry Straub.

The remainder of funds will be collected through Special Gifts, Memorials, and Estates.

Indiana's total pledge is $1 million. "Teenagers Against Cancer", a new volunteer group, has pledged $10,000 of this amount and will conduct special events through the next few months to raise the money.

Volunteers can still be utilized in certain areas, and those interested in serving during this three-day drive may call 624-5657 to offer help.

Educational materials, showing how close research is to discovering cures for various types of cancer, how to do self examinations, how to "Reach to Recovery" after mastectomy, how to recognize cancer symptoms, will be disseminated through doctors' offices, hospitals, and many public buildings during the Crusade.

"We want everyone to be aware of this disease that can bring such heartache to families, sometimes so suddenly," comments Terry Straub. "Science is just on the brink of great discoveries, but more money is needed for this research. This is the average individual's chance to contribute and get the self-satisfaction of having done something really important."

Conference of cities bring notables of world to city

Mayor Richard G. Lugar, and the City of Indianapolis will be hosts, May 25-28 to an historic conference on Cities bringing together for the first time mayors and other leading local governmental officials of the North Atlantic Community.

Local officials (North Atlantic Community level) will be joined by central governmental representatives and observers for discussions on problems shared by cities on both sides of the Atlantic.

Cabinet-level officials, U.S.A. and other NATO nations will participate and outstanding authorities of international reputations will be speakers and members of panels. J. Irwin Miller, Columbus Ind., widely-heralded philanthropist - industrialist, civic and church leader is the conference chairman.

Local officials (North Atlantic Community level) will be joined by central governmental representatives and observers for discussions on problems shared by cities on both sides of the Atlantic.

The Mayor of Cleveland, Carl B. Stokes, is scheduled to speak Wednesday, May 26, at the session in the Hilton Hotel, breakfast 8-9 a.m.

Other speakers and panelists include: Gov. Edgar D. Whitcomb, Dr. Gunnar Randers, deputy secretary general, NATO; Albin Chalandon, minister for Public Works and Housing, France; Dr. Lauritz, minister of Urban Housing, France and Dr. Lauritz, minister of Urban Housing, Federal Republic of Germany. The list includes: Peter Walker, Secretary of State for the Environment, Great Britain; U.S. Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, George Romney, William Ruckelshaus, U.S. administrator, Environmental Protection and Collette Flesch, Mayor of Luxembourg City, Luxembourg.

A breakfast is scheduled at the Hilton Hotel, Wednesday, May 26, 8-9 a.m.; a luncheon at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 12:30-2 p.m. A buffet dinner will be held May 26, 7:30 p.m., in the Museum of Art; a breakfast Thursday, May 27, 8-9 a.m. at the Hilton Hotel; a luncheon at the Scottish Rite Cathedral, 12:30 - 2:30 p.m. and a dinner meeting at the Exposition Hall, State Fairgrounds.

JERALD C. CHRISTIAN SEEKS CITY-COUNTY COUNCIL POSITION

Jerald C. Christian, 2643 Cold Springs Manor Drive has announced he will seek the Democratic nomination in the May 4 primary for City-Councilman in the 17th district.

A former precinct committeeman he has been active in community affairs. He has served as chairman of the Community Mental Health Center and as a member of the Haughville Community Council.

He is a graduate of Indiana University and director of Christamore House, a former probation officer and a case-work supervisor at the Marion County Juvenile Court.

Mrs. Annie Davis

Final rites for Mrs. Annie Davis, who died April 7, following a long illness, were held Monday at Capitol Avenue Seventh Day Adventist Church, where she was a member, with burial in Floral Park Cemetery. She was 85.

A native of Bessmer City, N.C., Mrs. Davis had been a resident of this city since 1929, when she became active in the Flanner House Mothers' Council. Baptized at an early age, she was united with the Seventh Day church in 1958 and was a devoted and faithful member until illness limited her activities.

Elder Lawrence Shepherd officiated at services for Mrs. Davis and also rendered the eulogy.

Survivors include five daughters, Roberta Alexander, Ella Mae Belt, Doris Williams and Louise Houston; a son, Howard Davis; a sister, Mrs. Bertha Williams; 31 grandchildren, 67 great-grandchildren, and four great-great-grandchildren.

Merchants Nat'l. Bank aids charity project

When an idea "popped" in the head of Mrs. Georgella Matthews of the Army Finance Center, she immediately sought out a way to make her thought a reality. Mrs. Matthews lives at 3451 Graceland.

What exactly Mrs. Matthews did was through the cooperation of the Fort Harrison Branch of Merchants National Bank. She contacted the bank's manager, Mrs. Mary Roti, who gave her permission to hang posters and distribute jars Mrs. Matthews made. The posters read: "Please give so she might live" and had a picture of Mrs. Jewell in bed with her husband at her side. There were three jars at each teller's window.

The very cooperative Merchants National Bank tellers were Mrs. Vera Milton, Margaret Cassidy, William A. Kane, and Irma Mallory. Mrs. Milton paid for the cashier's check when it came time for Mrs. Matthews to withdraw the full amount.

Every division of the Finance Center pitched in and gave donations.

The result of Mrs. Matthews' campaign was the donation of $552.34 from bank employees and Finance Center workers. Mrs. Matthews learned of the fund through The Indianapolis Recorder and decided she wanted to do something bigger than just giving a donation.

But, before she embarked on the task, she secured the full support of her pastor, Rev. John A. Kenreich of Our Savior Lutheran Church who told her it was a "good idea" and announced it before the congregation.

The charitable-minded northsider told The Recorder: "I wish to acknowledge with deep appreciation the kindness and generosity of those who made contributions to the Mary Jewell Kidney Fund."

"The cooperation of the employees of Merchants National Bank in providing the facilities which made the collection possible is also gratefully acknowledged."

Flanner House Guild kid's fashion show

The Flanner House Guild of Indianapolis will sponsor its annual Children's Fashion Show, Sunday, April 18, at 3 p.m. at Mt. Zion Baptist Church, 3500 Graceland.

The proceeds will be used to replace cots and playground equipment for the nursery school.

The Guild is the women's group of Flanner House organized for the purpose of supporting the day care center when the budget does not provide many of the necessities for the comfort of the children.

A very capable staff mans the day care center under the supervision of Mrs. Genevieve Daniels. Mrs. Earline Moore is chief of the social service department. Mrs. Moore was the recipient of a scholarship from the Guild to complete her requirements for a master's degree in social science.

In addition to children of the nursery school appearing on the show, there will be a number of children who do not attend the day care center, showing their Easter finery.

Mrs. Alpha Blackburn is commentator. Mrs. Dora O. Blackburn will be in charge of decorations. Mrs. Alma Cunningham is Guild president.

'Spring Thing' is planned by group

The "Spring Thing" Butler-Tarkington's festive outdoor bazaar and fair, originated in 1970, has been scheduled this year for Saturday afternoon, May 8, at Tarkington Park, 3900 N. Meridian.

Stephen R. West, president of the Butler-Tarkington Neighborhood Association, Inc., has appointed Mrs. Christopher V. Brown, 5434 N. Capitol, and Mrs. Edwin Harper, 444 W. Hampton as general chairmen.

Music, refreshments, races, games, and displays of crafts and talents from residents of the neighborhood will be combined at the "Spring Thing," which will occupy all of Tarkington Park with the exception of the tennis courts.

Helping Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Harper with arrangements are decorations and publicity, Mrs. Rudy W. Yayde, 5329 Graceland; Mrs. John Barnhill, 4741 N. Illinois; Mrs. J.J. Blackmon, 219 W. Hampton; refreshments, and Mrs. Samuel Tyson, 4717 Boulevard Pl.

A solo programmer, Mrs. Rudolph Wilson, 329 Buckingham Dr.; bake sale, Mrs. Lawrence Vannice, 5012 Graceland; music, Mrs. Willie Thompson, 306 W. Hampton Dr., and Mrs. John W. Clark, 401 W. Hampton Dr., and flowers and plants, Mrs. Hybert Hill, 4641 N. Kenwood.

Others are entertainment, Mrs. Edwin Harper; fun booth, Mrs. Frederick Winters, 5457 N. Capitol; knick-knacks stall, Mrs. Anthony Strigari, 4705 Boulevard; arts and handicrafts, Mrs. Christopher V. Brown; clean-up, Mrs. R.J. Renspecker, 230 W. 46th, and financial affairs, Philip Arnold, 5221 Boulevard.

Park-Tudor School's tour scheduled for May 1-2

The thirty-third annual House and Garden Tour of Park-Tudor Schools Inc., 7200 N. College Ave., will be held Saturday and Sunday, May 1-2 1:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. The tour is sponsored by the Mothers' Association of Park-Tudor School with the objective of providing funds for student grants-in-aid for qualified boys and girls who wish a college preparatory education.

Persons making the tour will visit six outstanding homes and the Park-Tudor Campus in Lilly Orchard. Free refreshments will be afforded on Clowes Commons Park-Tudor School. Tickets for the tour may be obtained at the school or from members of the sponsoring committee.

Mrs. H. Roll McLaughlin is general chairman; Mrs. King R. Traub is co-chairman and Mrs. John R. Carr Jr., publicity chairman. Bus service will be available at 39th Street and Meridian at noon the day of the tour.

Catherine Grissom receives an honor

The first black educator in the state to receive the honor of being "Social Worker of the Year" is Miss Catherine Grissom of this fair city.

Miss Grissom maintains a very stringent schedule in that she is a social worker for the Indianapolis Public Schools (35 years at School 4 and is an instructor in the undergraduate social work program at Butler University.

The plaque she received read in part: For distinguished service and sincere dedication to clients, to the community, and to the social work profession locally, nationally and internationally. "The award was from the Central Indiana Chapter of the National Association of Social Workers. She has been a delegate to the International Conference on Social Workers and was a program panelist at that conference in Helsinki, Finland. She has also lent her talents to the social worker field in Munich, Germany; Manila, Philippines, and in Washington, D.C.

Her philosophy on life is that you "do the most good by dedicating your life to help other people." "This is all I've ever done," Miss Grissom lightly pointed out.

Miss Grissom earned her B.A. Degree and her M.S. Degree from Indiana University. She has also studied in New York and Chicago. The likeable lady attended the public schools of Indianapolis.

A native Hoosier, Miss Grissom is a member of numerous professional organizations including the National Association of Social Workers, Indiana State Teachers Association, National Education Association, and Indianapolis Education Association.

She is an active member of the First Church of Christ Scientist of Indianapolis.

By ELSA JACKSON

The FAC meeting held Monday night, April 12, was one of much interest to the civic minded members of the organization.

A number of political candidates, representing the two major political parties, appeared before the organization and gave their platform or program of which they pledge their whole effort in seeing that it comes to pass.

Many questions were raised by the members present and answers were given. The organization, being a non-political group, left the screening out of candidates up to the independent member's discretion. All in all the meeting was very interesting and educational for all who attended.

On Friday, April 16, the board of directors of the FAC, is sponsoring a appreciation program in recognition of the many years that Mrs. Lulah Hodge has served the board.

Mrs. Hodge has now been made chairman emeritus. All the members of the FAC and friends with the general public are invited to this program. Refreshments will be served.

The program will be at 8 p.m. at the FAC Club Home, 2309 N. Capitol. Alvia Coleman is president, and Isiah Hill is secretary. Chester Little is chairman of the program.

The annual "Fantasy of Fashions Style Show," presented by the activities committee of the FAC which is considered one of the most outstanding events during the calendar year, will be held Sunday, April 18 at 4 p.m. in the Muriel Room of the ISTA Building.

Harry Campbell will furnish the music. This promises to be a treat for all.

Letters will soon be mailed to the many travelers that have signed up for one of the three educational tours sponsored by the FAC.

In order that they may complete all of the preliminary arrangements and in a number of

Activities are plentiful for American War Mothers

The American War Mothers have begun a busy schedule for the coming months. The group was organized by an Act of Congress in 1926 and is for the purpose of rehabilitating and helping veterans of all wars participated in by the United States.

The first project is the Mothers' May Gift Shops. Lovely gifts are donated by the members for the mothers and wives of the patients in the Veterans Administration Hospitals.

Volunteers have the patients select the gifts for their mothers and wives, then gift wrap them, and mail the ones to the relatives living out of town.

There is no cost to the patients for the gifts or mailing. All are welcome to volunteer their help at any of the hospitals. The following are the hospitals and the dates: Marion Hospital, Marion, Ind., April 20 - 21; Madison Hospital, Madison, Ind., April 24, and Fort Wayne Hospital, Fort Wayne, Ind., April 27-28.

The eight group meetings or workshops are a yearly project. Each year the meetings are held in different towns over the state for a day. Meetings for this year throughout the state are: May 4, Columbia City; May 12, Sullivan; May 19, Crawfordsville; May 26, Indianapolis; June 2, Marion; June 9, Columbus, and June 16, Pendleton.

Anyone is welcome to attend any or all of these meetings. Call Mrs. Williams F. McMillen, state president, for time and directions.

The organization gives weekly parties and entertainment in the V.A. Hospitals for the patients.

Mrs. William F. McMillen, state president, and Mrs. F. W. Schoppenhorst, state corresponding secretary, are to attend the Mothers Day Services at the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington Cemetery at Washington, D.C., May 9. The American War Mothers are in charge of these services.

The mothers will be entertained at a tea in the National Headquarters in Washington, D.C., May 8. Mrs. Edward T. Ward is state publicity chairman for the Indiana War Mothers.

A PLAQUE was presented to Miss Catherine Walston (left) by the Girls Clubs of Indianapolis for her dedicated service to the organization. Mrs. Walston is shown with Mrs. Benjamin Perry, who received the honor last year. In receiving the plaque, Mrs. Walston was made an honorary life member of Girls Clubs. The honoree has worked with Girls Clubs since its inception two years ago. She has assisted in the arts and crafts classes and cooking. Mrs. Walston was the only recipient of the award this year. "We love her dearly. She is a very, very special woman," Mrs. Perry noted. There are 1,000 girls in the program in Indianapolis located at 1125 Spruce. The purpose of the clubs is to serve as a place for girls to go and a place for them to do the things they want to do hoping it keeps them off the streets. "We hope to help them grow to become better citizens," Mrs. Perry said. (Recorder photo by Richard Gaither).

Parents club to meet with Mrs. M. Hill

The Orchestra and Band Parents Club of Crispus Attucks High School will meet Sunday, April 18, in the home of Mrs. Marie Hill, 2440 Paris.

Plans will be made for the annual picnic to Lafayette Park. All members are asked to attend.

Mrs. Hervey Gamble is president. Mrs. Hill is publicity chairman.

Visitor here before going to meeting

Church Women United will be meeting at Wichita, Kans., April 22 to April 25 in an Ecumenical Assembly.

One of the women who will be attending is Mrs. Godfrey Coker of Sierra Leone. Mrs. Coker will spend 10 days before the assembly with two of her children at Lafayette, students at Purdue University.

Mrs. Coker was in Indianapolis Tuesday, April 13, and Thursday, April 15, as guest of Indianapolis Church Women United president, Mrs. Merton Good, 2101 W. Stop 11 Rd.

One of the city's most efficient day care centers is that one operated capably by Mrs. Harriet Lacy, director, since June 16, 1968, at 125 Fall Creek, South Drive.

The school, the South Drive Day Care Center is well-equipped and carries out a program which meets the requirement of the State Department of Public Welfare, licensing division and the Coordinating Committee for Child Care. Both agencies have included the center's program in their own day care program.

Mrs. Lacy earned her B.S. Degree from the College of Liberia in Africa. She received a graduate certificate from the Merrill Palmer Institute, Detroit, Mich., and has had additional courses in child psychology, early childhood development, normal behavior and general educational psychology.

Mrs. Lacy has studied at Wayne State University and is presently taking courses which she finds personally enjoyable at Indiana Central College.

The Merrill Palmer Institute is one of few which offer early childhood training on a graduate level.

A native of Monrovia, Liberia, Africa, Mrs. Lacy has lived in the United States continuously since 1952. She has traveled throughout the country. Her father, Ernest Lyon, was former counsel general for the U.S. to Liberia. Her mother, the late Mrs. Goldie Ball Lyon, was an American from Baltimore, Md.

Mrs. Lacy has been a driver-collector for Washington Auto Parts for 18 years.

Guild's 25th annual card party dated

The Me-De-Phar Guild will have its silver anniversary card party Saturday, May 8, at 12:45 p.m. in the L.S. Ayres Auditorium.

Plans for the 25th annual event were discussed during a recent meeting with Dr. and Mrs. Walter Maddux.

The coming to a meeting of a doctor's group resulted in the name Me-De-Phar Guild representing medical, dental and pharmaceutical doctors.

The auxiliary aids General Hospital and this year furnished a room. The guild also aided Alpha Home. Mrs. S.D. Meriwether is president.

Californians are feted by local family

Mr. and Mrs. George Simmons of 3730 N. Gale were recent host and hostess to two cousins from California and other members of the family.

WORDS THAT WIN are the words you use in your advertisement in The Recorder.

Black pride expressed through wearing gele

One of the most distinctive expressions of black pride today is the modern black woman's adoption of clothing styles which reflect her African heritage.

SISTER REBECCA GOD SENT ALL PRAYERS AND HEALING OPEN 7 DAYS

Touch of her hand will heal you. SISTER REBECCA has the God-Given Power to Heal by Prayer. Everyone welcome, white or colored, at SISTER REBECCA'S Home. What you see with your eyes, your heart will believe. Are you sick? Do you, need help? Do you have bad luck? Bring your problems to Sister Rebecca FROM 9 A.M. - 9 P.M. 3306 WEST 10th ST. CALL FOR APPOINTMENT! 637-5239

For African clothing, according to the current issue of Essence magazine, is "definitely not a copy or imitation of any fashion trend invented with the white woman in mind."

For example, the gele, or headwrap, has become a popular crowning touch to today's fashion-conscious black woman. Basically, the gele is a 2 1/2 - yard length of material which, when folded properly, gives the wearer a strikingly original African look.

The February issue of Essence, the magazine for black women, gives these easy directions for wrapping a gele, pronounced "gay-la":

1. Fold cloth in thirds lengthwise so that the edges slightly overlap.
2. Hold cloth lengthwise.

3. Place one end at the back left side of your head.
4. Hold same end of cloth around your forehead to meet the right side of your head.
5. Hold with right hand and wrap around your head with your left hand.
6. Bring cloth over left ear and across forehead.
7. Pull cloth around back and tighten slightly.
8. Switch hands, bring cloth around front of head.
9. Wrap the fabric above the first layer and across to right side.
10. Spread cloth slightly with both hands for second layer fold.
11. Grasp the top of the cloth with left hand, allowing bottom to fall free.
12. Place left hand on forehead and allow cloth in right hand to fold over it.
13. Slip hand out and arrange cloth neatly over right side of head.
14. Continue to wrap clockwise around the head clockwise. End of material should be at the back of your head.
15. With left hand, tuck end in closest layer. Shake your head a few times to make sure the gele is secure.

Essence suggests selecting any fabric with a high percentage of cotton for the gele, but cautions against polished cottons. Although any solid or patterned design will give good results, one of the new African-made prints will help create a very special look.

Happy birthday to Mrs. Robbie Williams and Mrs. Mildred Porter, April 21; Mrs. Elsa Jackson, April 23; and David Walls and Willie Nickson, April 24.

Mrs. Florence Belton was hostess to the Golden Circle Girls meeting recently.

Mrs. Cora Johnson is reported recuperating nicely from surgery at Winona Memorial Hospital. Mack D. Smith, husband of Mrs. Mattie Lee Smith, underwent surgery at General Hospital. He is recuperating at home.

Mrs. Elizabeth Enix, a former member of the club, who underwent surgery at Winona, is recuperating nicely at home. Vernon Sweat, stepson of Mrs. Tomary Sweat, is also recuperating from surgery at Winona.

The special committee for the 1971 tour to Hawaii completed final plans and should be out in two weeks. Mrs. Mary Garvin is chairman of the tour to Hot Springs, Ark., in July. She says reservations are coming in nicely.

Allen Chapel A.M.E. Church is holding its annual night Sunday School, Sunday, April 18, at 7 p.m. Miss Wanda Gibson is in charge.

A-In Memoriam

WHITE-In loving memory of COLONEL WHITE who passed April 16, 1966. A page in my memory angel, Softly turns today. As I remember you in silence And make no outward show, But what it meant to lose you, No one will ever know.
—Ruth White, Wife and Family

DYER-In loving memory of our father

SCHOENFELD DYER who passed April 9, 1962. What would we give if we could say, "Hello, Father," To hear his voice and see his smile, To sit with him and chat for a while, To you who have your fathers, Cherish them with care. For you will never know the heartache, Till you see their vacant chair. We love you and miss you very much
At the end of nine sad years.

Academy wrestler gains status as All-American

WASHINGTON -- A soft-spoken 21-year-old native of Pumphrey, Md., walks slowly from the center mat with his head hung in dejection. For Midshipman Second Class Lloyd W. Keaser his bid for a national wrestling title just went out the window on a real squeaker.

The scene was the National NCAA Wrestling Championships held recently at Auburn, Ala. In a quarter final match Keaser took on the tournament's outstanding wrestler in a head to head match.

After eight minutes of regulation wrestling the match was dead even as a hush fell over the crowd as they began to wonder from where Keaser came. With the beginning of the overtime period the crowd came to its feet, cheering every move but to no avail as the match again ended without either man having won in a clear cut decision.

Now it was up to the referee and in the tense moments that followed, both men waited looking as if they had just run a sub-four-minute mile ending in a photo finish. The came the disheartening news for Keaser. On a referee's decision he was declared the loser.

Keaser went on to finish fourth and was named to the All-American ranks. For Lloyd the season was over but the climb to the All-American ranks began when he was a U. S. Naval Academy Plebe or freshman.

As a freshman he was the plebe invitational tournament and was named the academy's Outstanding Plebe Wrestler. The following year he set a mark of 20-3 and in the process won the 142-pound Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Championship. He went on to the National only to lose in the first round.

With defeat still fresh in his mind, Lloyd entered a post season tournament and "vowed never to look back" as he started his climb back up the ladder for another shot at the national crown.

Showing added maturity and experience, he won the post season title and went on to an undefeated 37-0 season. During this time he again won the 142-pound Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association title while adding two 150-pounders to his credit. They included the Maryland Wrestling Federation Meet and the Pennsylvania Wilkes-Barre Open during the Christmas holidays.

With these titles in his bag, Lloyd went onto win the Eastern District Two Championship at 142-pounds and was named the tournament top wrestler. Lloyd took these credentials to the Nationals where he indeed avenged last

JACKIE ROBINSON

Jackie Robinson, who broke the color barrier in major league baseball 24 years ago, will be in Indianapolis Friday night to address a gathering of the Indiana Council for Social Studies, meeting on the

as "HUMP," Howard University Mississippi Project.

Robert Hooks, the black actor, who runs a repertory theater in Washington, also was the news conference and pledged support of the drive.

Dr. Joffie Pittman, a Washington dentist who is director of HUMP, said the latest effort was a trip to Quitman in December by a team of 48 physicians, dentists and technicians who treated 900 children. HUMP has a trailer, kept at Marks, Miss., for twice-yearly visits by Howard team.

So far, 2,000 people have been treated, Pittman said.

Until the hospital is built, he said, the plan is to try and rotate medical help from Howard to Quitman, but there isn't enough money available

Ashe to use 'influence' to aid Howard U. project

WASHINGTON--Arthur Ashe has volunteered to use his contacts in the tennis world to help raise $500,000 needed for a student project to bring medical care to the poor in Mississippi's Quitman County.

Quitman is one of the nation's poorest counties, and students of Howard University have been trying for three years to raise funds to build and staff a hospital in Quitman.

Ashe, a top U. S. tennis star, told a news conference "as a middle-class black involved with a sport connected with the socially elite, I know a lot of people with lots of money."

Ashe said he will do his fund-raising during tennis travels as honorary national chairman of the project known

Editorials and Opinions

"Power concedes nothing without a demand — it never did and it never will. Find out just what people will submit to, and you've found out the exact amount of injustice and wrong which will be imposed upon them. This will continue until they resist, either with words or blows or both. The limits of tyrants are prescribed by the endurance of those whom they oppress."

What if Calley had been black?

When numerous black men died on the gallows after white officers upheld European women, most of them prostitutes or basic camp followers, in the claims of criminal assault, the wheels of this nation did not grand to a halt, although most of the people around knew that these guys were getting rotten deals, most of the time.

And the nation did not call itself falling apart in any of the actions involving black servicemen from the thousands murdered after capture by Civil War Confederate troops, hustled into ditches in Chatto, nooga and Louisiana and murdered by the thousands by an army that refused to recognize black troops.

World War I went right on after 13 blacks were ordered executed on July 1, 1917, in Houston, Tex., and forty sentenced to life imprisonment in the deaths of 17 whites who were among those who had ganged up on the Negro soldiers, whom they did not want in the city.

The nation stood by silently when Colonel Young had to ride a horse from Cleveland to Washington, D. C., to prove that he was not sick and could take over a command in Europe.

But the nation is upset because Lieutenant Calley has been ordered to spend the rest of his life in prison at hard labor, and receive a dishonorable discharge.

We can't go into the morals of the Vietnam War, since common sense tells us that all wars since the very first one, have been wrong; that the human animal was meant by God for something better than killing or dying for a cause that no one but the people who started it can understand.

But when people like Governor Wallace leap to Calley's defense and Lester Maddox draws cheers for screaming that Calley probably saved thousands of American lives by his action, a feeling of disgust must prevail.

Here for a man raised in a racist-oriented society like ours, it becomes hard to view the Orientals as people, and like the Arabs in World War II it's easy to shoot them down when no one is looking.

It is understandable with Communist tactics the troops would become angry and in some cases find it almost impossible not to shoot back, even at unarmed women.

But to herd people into a ditch, gain complete domination over them and then mercilessly slaughter them is nothing short of pure murder.

No man should walk away from this free, and the nation should blame a low morale, not on the condition, but on the fact that the people want no part of a war that they can't understand.

Ask yourself:

How would it have been had Calley been black?

FBI would do well to check local '235' work

Housing Secretary George Romney recently revealed he has sent to the FBI more than one hundred cases of alleged fraud, forgery and other violations in a government home purchase program for the poor.

Reporting to the House Banking and Currency Committee which prodded him to crack down on the "Section 235" subsidy program, Romney said nine Federal Housing Administration (FHA) appraisers were implicated in some of the cases.

The Housing and Urban Development (HUD) chief also announced tough new rules to avoid future cases of speculators and fly-by-night contractors victimizing low income home buyers. He said HUD also was trying to force businessmen who have foisted shoddy, unsafe houses on the poor to pay for repairs.

In addition to the 86 cases referred to the FBI as a result of the committee's investigation into the "235" housing, Romney said his department has turned up 112 other situations since 1969 warranting FBI follow up.

A check with HUD in Washington revealed this week that none of the cases of alleged fraud was in the Indianapolis area.

However, there have been numerous complaints involving shoddy workmanship, code violations and the difficulty in getting deficiencies corrected.

There exists the strong possibility there are a number of these violations also involving fraud—with the fast buck artist victimizing the poor and ill-educated purely for their own enrichment.

It could do no harm and possibly serve the public good if Indianapolis were to be included on the list of cities where HUD has already uncovered instances of fraud in the Justice Department investigation.

The great health debate

Next to defense, medical costs soak up more of America's dollars than any other area except for national defense costs. Medical care cost about $70 billion last year, more than was spent on social security or education.

But despite this huge investment, the U.S. ranks 17th among all nations in the life expectancy of women and 14th in the rate of infant mortality. And the figures for black people and other minorities are still worse.

It is clear that what we think of as the medical system is no system at all, and that radical surgery is in store to put the nation's health business back on its feet.

The beginnings of that surgery are embodied in a number of formal proposals for change, sponsored by various individuals and groups, that are shaping up as a great debate over health policies for the future.

The Administration recently weighed in with a wide-ranging program that recognizes what the President has called "massive crisis" in health care.

An even broader proposal for a national health insurance program was framed by the late Walter Reuther and Whitney Young, and much of their agenda is found in a bill proposed by Senator Kennedy.

Many proposals follow the lines of nationalized health services proven successful in other countries, avoiding reliance upon profit-oriented private practitioners and insurance companies, our present system that has boosted costs into the stratosphere. Such proposals recognize the human moral right to health care.

The National Urban League has published its health position, called "Toward a National Health Program" that sets forth some basic elements of a co-ordinated national system for making available excellent health care for all.

A basic feature of this program calls for a tax-supported, federally co-ordinated health care system that eliminates the "piece-work" method of payments. The Urban League's program is consumer-oriented rather than industry-oriented and demands consumer participation in planning policy and community control of health services. It proposes that all government health services be gathered under a special department of Health, headed by a Cabinet Secretary. The money for this national health system would come from taxes, but would be run on a trust fund basis, similar to the social security funds.

In this way, the Department wouldn't have to run to Congress every year and citizens would be assured of an adequately funded health program.

The numbers of health specialists would be increased, insuring that all communities — including poor urban and rural areas that now have a shortage of doctors and hospitals — get equal treatment. One way to assure this would be to initiate a tax-supported public health professional and training program, free to any applicant in return for a five-year service commitment.

There's a lot more to the program and in the coming months it will be subjected to severe scrutiny, as will proposals by the Administration, labor and health groups, and various Congressmen.

But national health reform is an idea whose time has come. Just a few years ago it was scorned as "socialized medicine." Now it would be hard to find anyone who thinks that the chaotic mess that passes for health services comes anywhere near fulfilling the needs of the nation.

We'll have to move now with all deliberate speed to set up a national health system; deliberate, because it is of momentous importance, and speed, because the need is so pressing.

Machine politics and real political power

In recent years there have been many programs proposed to enable American blacks escape the status of colonial subjects for white America. They range from a war for the complete integration of the Negro into the warp and woof of our national life to various types of voluntary segregation or separation.

Among the separatists are those who would prefer to migrate to alien shores and those who want to portion of the United States ceded to blacks for the development of black state and those who simply want to have separate facilities within the existing geographical boundaries—separate schools controlled by blacks and other racially separate institutions from businesses to churches.

With the organization of the Black Panther Party came the examination of politics as the vehicle of deliverance. There were those who were for the organization of a party composed solely of blacks while others argued that the best way to profit from the voting booth was for Negroes to become active with the dominant political party in their midst in other words to play the game of machine politics. To a great extent that has been tried and found wanting. The dominant political party in a given community is machine organized and the controllers of the machine are white politicians. Must black office holders owe their soul to the political machine which endorsed them. That sad fact has made it apparent that politically in those instances the black citizens have not overcome but have been bribed with crumbs from the political banquet table.

Real political power have come to Negroes in many of the regions of the benighted South where they had to beat the machine to get elected and those became to part of a new political machine in which they held some power.

All over the country, some black voters are experimenting with a new political idea. It is to organize into non-partisan blocs and to endorse black candidates and work for their nomination independently of the machines of the two major parties. In many communities, Negroes hold the balance of power in the primary especially in the Democrat Party in urban communities.

In those situations it would not be hard to beat the machine if the majority black voters followed the suggestion of the organized black voting bloc instead following the machine slate.

Unigov, Indiana, is one of those communities in which the black voters could very well make insidious inroad against the Democrat machine. In many instances where there is one black candidate and several whites, the Negro voters by voting for the black candidate, could completely upset the machine apple cart.

The sixth councilmanic district in which there are four white candidates including the machine favored James Beatty, Grant Hawkins is the sole black candidate and if a solid enough black vote were to go to Hawkins, the chances are that he would beat the machine.

In the at large councilmanic races it is a bit more difficult because of the number of black viewing for the four positions but even there it is possible for blacks to go strongly for one or two of the black candidates and win in those instances.

In the race to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Rep. Choice Edwards there are three white candidates while Andrew Ramsey is the sole black candidate running for the position made vacant by the resignation of a black office holder. In this instance also the black Democrats hold the edge if they would only recognize it.

In this city there has recently been organized a non-partisan group which calls itself the Urban Union. In its initial effort this group has endorsed some sixteen black black candidates out of the thirty or forty odd who are seeking political offices through the two political parties.

It will be interesting to watch the achievements of this new group as it gets its first baptism of fire. Fred Davidson, the president of the Urban Union promises that win, lose or draw the Union is here to stay.

Our Readers Write Local ministers present "Calley case" views to Nixon

To The Editor
The Recorder

Dear Sir:

Honorable Richard M. Nixon, President
United States of America
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

We understand you are going to review the case of Lieutenant William Calley and there are some vital issues we feel are being overlooked. We feel morally compelled to call time to your attention.

Such issues as: Is America committed to remaining in the humane, civilized and advanced Family of Nations? Is America still committed to the principles of humanitarian conduct of war, as set forth in the Geneva Agreement? Are not the alleged atrocities of My Lai and all similar incidents an outrage against the decency of mankind? Were it not a few months ago we were crying about the atrocities of Biafra? Have we not been shocked and horrified by atrocities of the enemy in World Wars I, II and every other war in which we have been engaged?

Mr. President, we feel that it is more important at this hour that you act as a statesman in the defense of honor and integrity of this country, than as a politician attempting to satisfy the emotional bias of the bigots blinded by hate and prejudice. For we are in danger, Mr. President, as a nation of taking the same road to national ruin and disgrace as Nazi Germany. We hope Mr. President, you will not go down in history as the national head that started America down that road.

"I Search into My Soul"

I have searched beyond the deep barrier of my mind and I find myself unable to escape. I have reached into the pit of my soul and I found myself wandering into endless space. Am I bound to lay between the awareness of my conscious and the one step beyond my subconscious mind?

In a world where death and destruction lay around each corner, I find it hard to accept that we must deceive before we are able to gain. Can it not be worthy for a man to gain respect and peace of mind, without the destructive force of brainwashing methods, or am I looking into a vision of untrue reality?

Just as a fly, a few inches from freedom, still wanders about never finding the path to gain his freedom we search endlessly for our destiny, only a few inches away. For how can we say what is right or wrong, for as high is high and low is low, so is our knowledge or right and wrong.

How can we say what is natural or unnatural for as sanity is to insanity to sanity, so is our wisdom of the natural and unnatural. How can we say which is day and which is night for as there are 360 degrees to knowledge so are there 360 degrees to time.

We must realize that each individual has a goal that we are destined to fulfill. Our goals are both mental, and physical, or the experience we must accomplish in order to gain the wisdom we need to enter into walls of infinity.

We wander endlessly undetermined to proceed into life because the barrier between life and non-existence of life is something that we have not the ability to penetrate.

For as there is no end to degrees of knowledge, so there is no end to degrees of the soul. For as there is no end to the heights of the universe, there is no end to the depths of the mind. Search not into your soul for knowledge, for knowledge lies within the contour of your mind.

Isaac Hayes establishes philanthropic organization

The Hayes Foundation, a non-profit, tax-exempt organization which will engage in philanthropic pursuits, has been established by Isaac Hayes, the recording artist and composer.

Created to "alleviate suffering wherever and whenever possible," according to Mr. Hayes, the Foundation plans to initiate programs itself and will aid existing projects it deems worthy of support.

The Hayes Foundation Board of Directors a r e: Georgia State Representative, Julian Bond; National Director of SCLC's Operation Breadbasket, Rev. Jesse Jackson; Ron Altman, Certified Public Accountant; O d e l l Horton, President of Le Moyne College, and Isaac Hayes.

The organization's activities will be financed partially by portions of proceeds of concerts performed by Mr. Hayes and other entertainers. Funds will also be sought through grants from Federal, state and local governments.

The Foundation was created by Mr. Hayes "so that I can share my good fortune with others." The 28-year-old singer, songwriter and record producer knew abject poverty and hardship as a child. Born about 40 miles from Memphis, he picked cotton as a boy, helped his grandparents on their share-cropping farm, worked in a meat-packing warehouse and held various menial jobs. At times he was unable to go to school because he had no clothes to wear, so poor

Artists announced for 10th Ohio Valley Jazz Festival

CINCINNATI, O. - George Wein, producer of the Ohio Valley Jazz Festival, which celebrates its tenth anniversary at Cincinnati's new Riverfront Stadium on Friday, July 30 and Saturday, July 31, announced today the following list of artists to appear:

FRIDAY, JULY 30, 8 P.M.
Lou Rawls, Les McCann Trio, B.B. King, Cannonball Adderley Quintet, Leon Thomas and Band, Dizzy Gillespie.

Wein also said that the 14-member Bill Walters Big Band would be on hand both nights to back vocalists Billy Eckstine and Lou Rawls.

Since the announcement of the festival in mid-February, festival officials said there has been an unprecedented demand for information, tickets, hotel accommodations and bus tour information. To alleviate delays in responding to its patrons, the festival announced the following:

1. Tickets to this year's festival at Riverfront Stadium are priced at $7.00, $6.00, $5.00 and $4.00 per person, per concert, with all seats reserved. Prices include all city taxes and the 25¢ per person Stadium Use Tax. There will be 25,000 seats available per night, and patrons may now mail order for tickets to: Ohio Valley Jazz Festival, 2526 Observatory Road, Cincinnati, Ohio 45208. Orders will be filled by date of earliest postmark.

2. The festival now has available a free, 8-page brochure, along with a complete packet of hotel and civic information to patrons who write the festival offices (2526 Observatory Road, Cincinnati, Ohio, 45208.)

3. The festival office has

(THINK OF THE POSSIBILITIES)

... a sex film of the strongest kind... totally revealing... goes as far as possible... sex and quality combined... BACKSTAGE

... a sense of style and a thoroughly professional job... give us take all erotic encounters... mass of female nudity and intimacy... superior technical knowhow added to basically nude dramatics... VARIETY

... a bold and interesting film... smacks of Bergman in intensity... high powered lesbian drama... certainly the best film yet in the fast moving new genre of Scandinavian-American co-productions were his grandparents. Today, Mr. Hayes, who records for Stax Records and is a vice-president of the recording firm, is a nationally known artist. "But I remember the lean days," he said, "and I hope I never forget them."

"All my life," he added, "I hoped that some day I would be able to help other people. Establishing this Foundation is something I have dreamed of for years. Helping others — that's really what it's all about isn't it?"

Believe Me... When I Tell You

By BOB WOMACK SR.

EDITOR'S NOTE... We wish to thank the many fans for their wonderful letters and telephone calls backing the column. We do our best in obtaining the topflight news-stories of the week. As to the typographical errors, all newspapers make them. However, that is not our 'bag.' We only dig the 'happenings,' for your reading pleasure.

CONFIDENTIAL... Why is it that in recent years the spirit of entertainment here and over the country has been dampened? The cats are doing well to obtain three-night gigs. However, just a few musicians are working six nites. In fact, you can almost count them on one hand.

Thousands of music-lovers and nite-lifers who once packed mostly all the bistros featuring flesh entertainment are not coming out anymore. Many of the managers of the "g a y spots" believe that "there's been some changes made."

You can't blame it on the entertainers, the beautiful bars, lounges, taverns or the admission for named attractions because the latter is way down in comparison with other major cities that feature the same "names."

WHAT IS IT?... A decade ago Naptown was hailed as the best town on the road for the w a r m reception and SRO (standing room only), appreciative audiences that applauded heavily for both local and national drawing cards.

Across the country the amusement centers have taken a terrific beating during the previous winter months and the goings were rough here (still are). According to a recent survey, things are moving SLOW in returning to the good "old days" and unless the forthcoming months are sensational, entertainment business will be a dead duck and many of the bright spots will have all the lights out (closed).

"Singing The Blues" seems to be a theme song for many of the local operators who have lost plenty of 'cake' on the entertainment promotions during the last year. High price box-office with low attendance may give anyone a restless headache and that's what's been happening here for a long, long time, so they say.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if there was an immediate drastic change in the rockin' world giving many sponsors an opportunity to regain the loss and cease the strain of humiliation and nervousness?

Attention Fans!... We are very anxious to know what's happening in the current entertainment world. Tell us in a short letter — Why The Attendance Is Low? ... What's Your Suggestion For Improvement? ... Who's Your Favorite Musical Attraction? Why?... (Ed's Note: This is no contest, but the best letter will appear in this column at a later date). Address The Recorder Theatrical Dept., 518 Indiana Avenue, 46202.

For Laughs... The late Jack Carson one said that when two women suddenly get friendly, it was a sign that some third woman had lost two friends. W.C. Fields was once cautioned by a doctor that drinking would shorten his life. "But," said the doctor, "if you stop drinking you can prolong your days." I believe you're right about that Doc," sighed the late comedian.

"I remember once about two years ago, I went twenty-four ours without a drink. I never lived a longer day in my life!" Friend, Herman "Piggy" Anderson says — "Women drivers would be good as men, if it weren't for one thing — Fenders." ... A local cat once told me — "Everytime that I pass a cemetery, I think that I am apartment hunting."

MUSIC IS LIKE A DISEASE, some artists have it bad and will never retire. Jazz singer Peggy Lee who still adolizes the late Billie Holiday has been claimed the greatest white female vocalist since the late Mildred Bailey.

NAMES IN THE NEWS... SAM THOMAS, the well-known businessman who owns and operates — Sam's Package and Liquor Store, located at 27th and North Harding Streets, continues to have one of the largest drive — in, cash and carry parking facilities on the near Northside.

However, this spacious parking area was built ONLY for the drive-in customers. According to the management — there is much loitering going on by the non-paying cats. In the event, this situation continues in the same key, Sam and the "fuzz" will do their "thing" ... Believe Me!...

We wish to thank the WILLY D. JONES for their kindness extended my family during the Easter Holiday. We understand, that Mrs. Jones reads the column weekly and is also interested in politics... More power to you on the latter ... The WILLIAM (BILL) WARDS of 3537 Forest Manor, recently spent a few days in St. Louis, Mo., visiting Ed and Hettie Ford. Incidentally, William is the brother of Herman, well-known sportsman around town. However, Herman is currently making his home in Washington, D.C.

Friend, ANNA GARVIN, celebrated her birthday on April 11. (Easter). A fabulous party was given in her honor by her sister, Chaiy Washington. The affair really jumped a long, long while. Guest included were: Ralph "Big Bob" Davis; Ann Peppers; Yours Truly and many others. ... Here's wishing M i s s Garvin many more happy birthdays.

THE OLD MAN OF 4-C ON COSBY'S SHOW MAY 2

A mix-up in the super-market brings a new friendship and some problems for Chet Kincaid in "The Old Man of 4-C," to be broadcast on NBC Television Network's "The Bill Cosby Show" Sunday, May 2 (8:30 to 9 p.m. N Y T; repeat Oct. 11, 1970). After their chance meeting in the market, Chet is visited with increasing frequency by Mr. Kane (Will Geer), a lonely retired neighbor. Realizing that he has allowed the old man to occupy too much of his time, Chet devises a plan, but it backfires.

In his first three matches the scrappy young man from the academy stunned the crowds with two pins and a decision. (A win by pin is equivalent to a boxer's knock-out record).

Then came the hard fought overtime match. The crucial loss ended his chances for a title this year but not his hopes for next season.

After his performances in the NCAA Nationals Keaser said of his All-America title, "It's a real thrill. I thought I could have gone all the way this year but I'll be around next year unless I am injured or something. I hope I can make it then and who knows, maybe the 1972 Olympic team. Man what a dream."

"One of the most pleasing things about my performance this year was the crowds reaction to me. People were coming up to me and asking, 'Who are you, where were you last year?' and 'How did you develop so fast?' I guess those remarks really added some spice to my fourth place finish and helped to ease some of the bitterness of that overtime decision," Keaser explained.

In setting a 37-0 mark, Keaser led the academy's wrestling team to an impressive 16-1-2 record, losing only to seventh ranked Michigan. Ed. Perry, academy wrestling coach, paid Lloyd this compliment:

"One of the reasons our team has done so well this year has been Lloyd's willingness to work with the other mem-basketball season.

Official final statistics from National College Sports Services showed Saturday Lamar scored 1,044 points in 29 games for an average of 36.0. Lamar scored at least 40 points in 13 games leading the Bayou Bulldogs to a 25-4 record and third place in the N C A A college division championship tournament at Evansville.

Lamar's high game for the season was the 62 points he scored against Northwest Louisiana.

bers of the team whether it be on his or on their weak points. He has a keen sense of leadership illustrated by his readiness to congratulate a mate on a win or more importantly cheer him up when he loses."

The son of a truck driver and the eldest of six children, Lloyd related how he came to choose the U. S. Naval Academy.

"My parents told me that whatever I wanted to do was up to me. I knew I wanted to attend college but I also knew I would have to obtain a scholarship to go. In my search the academy never crossed my mind until my wrestling coach at Brooklyn Park High School suggested I try the academy."

"At first I was sceptical," continued to solid mechanical engineering major. "Finally after several visits to the campus, I realized that the academy afforded me the opportunity to do everything I wanted to do. It offered a chance for a good education, a chance to continue wrestling and a chance to serve my country. And so here I am," Keaser explained.

In summarizing his three years at the Naval Academy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd T. Keaser concluded: "I really feel that the restrictions on the campus are not that great in the long run. Besides, for me it means a good education."

Butler University campus.

Robinson, also noted for his work in the area of civil and human rights, will speak at a 7 p.m., banquet on the subject, "Hooked on Drugs."

Reservations for the banquet may be made by contacting Keith Costelluccio, chairman of the council, at Lawrence Central High School.

Although best known as a baseball player, and a member of the exclusive Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., Robinson was one of the best all-round athletes of 30 years ago, and at UCLA was more famous as a football and basketball star than in baseball. He was also national champion in the broad jump and a first rate tennis player.

He was the first Negro to become general manager of a top flight integrated professional team when, in 1966, he was named to that post finished second with a 33.0 average while Key Mayfield of Tuskegee was third at 32.1 Richard Fugua of Oral Roberts was fourth at 31.8, and Travis Grant, of Kentucky State's N A I A champions, was fifth at 31.2.

Ed Roeth of DePauw won the foul shooting title by making 19 of his last 20 free throws for a percentage of .908. Tony Williams of St. Francis, Maine, beat out Elmore Smith of Kentucky State for the rebounding title. Williams averaged an even 25.0 in 24 games. The 7-foot Smith averaged 24.2 in 33 games.

Eddie Phillips of Alabama A & M shaded Gregg Northington of Alabama State in the field goal shooting percentage category. Phillips had a percentage of 71.9 to .717 for Northington, who played at Indianapolis Wood high school.

Savannah State was the highest scoring team with an average of 105.2 for 29 games. Ashland was best on defense, yielding an average of 54.4 in 28 contests.

Woolworth Co. appoints nine Negro managers of stores

NEW YORK-- The F. W. Woolworth management training program has seen the recent promotions of nine black executive to positions of store manager in various parts of the country.

The company's incentives for advancement have also resulted in the promotions of six existing black managers to larger Woolworth stores in the country.

On a regional basis, the company's Northeastern region lists two recent promotions to manager and three men have been assigned to manager large stores. Alfred V. Powell, Jr., who joined Woolworth management training program in 1967, was promoted manager of his first store in Brooklyn, N. Y. Clifford B. Aranda who joined the management training program in 1966 has been named manager of a Woolworth unit in the Bronx, N. Y.

Chester L. Taylor, manager of a Woolworth unit in Brooklyn, N. Y. since 1968, has been transferred to a larger store on Lenox Avenue in New York's Manhattan. Taylor began his management training in 1963.

Rudolph L. Harris, who has managed Woolworth stores in the Bronx and in Manhattan since 1969 has been promoted to associate manager of a large new Woolworth unit in St. Croix, Virgin Islands. He began his Woolworth management training in 1968, following three years as assistant in a store in Greenwich, Conn.

Donald A. Cameron first became a Woolworth store manager in Brooklyn, N. Y. in 1969 following two years in the company's executive training program. He was recently promoted to a larger Woolworth store in Roxbury, Mass.

In Woolworth's South-eastern region, Charles D. Taylor has been named manager of one of the company's stores in Miami, Fla. He began his management training in 1967 and worked in Woolworth stores in Ft. Lauderdale and Miami prior to his recent appointment to manager.

Also in this region, Curtis L. Robinson, former manager of a Woolworth Store in Fayetteville, N. C. has been promoted to manage a large Woolworth store in his home town of Roanoke, Va. He began as a management trainee in 1967 and has worked in Woolworth units in Norfolk, Virginia Beach and Williamsburg, Va.

In Woolworth's North Central region two new black managers have been appointed recently. They are, Robert T. Buchanan, appointed manager of a store in Chicago and John N. Dale, who also has been assigned a Woolworth store in that city. Both Buchanan and Dale began in the Woolworth management training program in the Chicago area in 1966.

Walter Willis, who has managed a Woolworth store in Chicago since 1966 has been promoted to a large unit in that city.

On the West Coast, Odell Murry, who began as a Woolworth management trainee in 1967, has been promoted manager of his first store in Compton, Calif.

Woolworth's South Central region has seen the appointments of two new black store managers and the promotion of an existing manager to a larger store. Moving to a larger unit after managing a store in Tulsa, Okla. since 1969 is Johnny Clyde Benjamin. He becomes manager of a Woolworth store in Kansas City, Mo.

The region's newest black store managers are Alvin Leo Fleury, who has assumed responsibilities in a Memphis, Tenn. Woolworth store and Edward Johnson who is managing a St. Louis, Mo. unit. Both of these men began in the Woolworth management training program in 1967.

In Woolworth's Midwestern region, Elwood Bruce has been appointed manager of a store in Milwaukee, Wis. He began his management training in the mid-60's and served his apprenticeship in various Woolworth stores in that city.

There are approximately 3,000 young management trainees enrolled in the Woolworth program. Once formally accepted into the program these people are named assistant store managers. Together with the formal aspects of the training program they learn the retailing business through on-the-job practical experiences associated with an operating store.

THE INDIANAPOLIS Coca-Cola Bottling Company and the Indianapolis Dental Research Society conducted a city-wide "Dentistry As A Career" program Wednesday, March 31, at the Marriott Hotel with a presentation to local high school and college students and their counselors. Participants included (from left to right) T. E. Land, advertising manager for Coca-Cola in Indianapolis; Eugene McCollers, Bea Moten, WIFE Radio co-community relations director; E. P.

Caruthers, registrar of Meharry Medical College, Nashville, Tenn., and Ed Washington, marketing specialist in Marketing Development Department, Atlanta, Ga. The program was part of a nation-wide effort by the National Dental Association to encourage more black students to enter the dental profession. Dr. F. E. Chowning of Indianapolis is president of the National Dental Association's recruitment committee.

Young Job Corps graduate aids others with problems

WASHINGTON-- When a job applicant at the District of Columbia Employment Service says he is from a broken home, has dropped out of school, or had a brush with the law -- he is lucky if he is talking to Sam Jones.

For Sam Jones is familiar with all of these problems. They aren't just words to him but experiences from which he finally learned firsthand that education and training are basic requirements for holding a good job.

Today, Samuel Leroy Jones 24, has a good job. He's a manpower Service Aid with the Employment Service's Job Information Branch, in downtown Washington.

Sam got his start in Job Corps, now a program of the Department of Labor. Not only did Job Corps teach him basic job skills, but it bolstered his determination to learn. He came out of the program with business office skills and some knowledge of offset printing.

Upon his return to Washington in 1967, Sam worked a year or so with local printers. Then in 1969, out of work and with a wife to support, he applied for admission to the District of Columbia's New Careers Program. There, he got the choice of further training in printing or for a career in public service. He chose the latter because of his interest in people.

When he completed the year's training in social services the District of Columbia Employment Service hired him in his present job. They are also giving him time off during working hours to take advanced courses at the Washington Technical Institute.

Sam's special skill as a manpower service aid is in assisting the discouraged and often hostile people who apply for jobs at the Employment Service. Most of them have neither the academic nor vocational background to qualify for a job with any future prospects. Sam's responsibility is to win their confidence and persuade them to spend the time and effort to get some education and training.

He is quite successful at this, his bossess say. "From Job Corps and the program I just went through, I discovered that you get out of something exactly what you put into it," he says. "And I not only acquired skills and discipline, but I learned how to get along with all types of people."

"For me, there is no generation gap and no racial gap. My basic philosophy is that people are people -- regardless of race, color, creed, or age."

Sam Jones is fired with ambition for himself, his wife, their two-year-old son, and year-old daughter.

His immediate goal is a high school equivalency certificate and a social arts certificate from the Washington Technical Institute. In the future he would like to get a bachelor's degree and set his sights for an advanced professional degree.

Funeral services for Walter Squires, age 61, 1138 S. Earhart were held Wednesday, April 14, in Union Baptist Church. The burial was in New Crown Cemetery. He died Saturday, April 10, in General Hospital. He was a lifelong resident here, a crane operator at Stokely Van Camp, and a member of the Union Baptist Church.

Air Force Reserve hunting for young college grads

Interested in a challenge? Valuable training and extra income? Flying.

The Air Force Reserve needs young pilots, and, if you qualify, the Reserve can offer that challenge, money, and even more, through its Undergraduate Pilot Training (UPT) program. And, believe it or not, the opportunity is open to you with little disruption of your civilian life.

What are the requirements? Candidates must be between the ages of 20 1/2 and 26 1/2 when they apply, have a college degree, pass a rigid physical exam, and score satisfactorily on an officers' qualifying test.

What's involved? When selected, you'll serve on active duty at a base in the United States for a little over one year, while you receive training valued at over $100,000. You'll attend Officer Training School (OTS) for three months at Lackland AFB, Texas. The OTS course is designed to instruct students on the duties and responsibilities of an officer, stressing such subjects as leadership and Air Force organization. After graduating, you'll be commissioned as an officer in the Air Force Reserve and move on the UPT course where you will learn to fly Air Force aircraft. The UPT program consists of some 200 flying hours, about 500 hours of academic and military training, and some 55 hours practice in flight simulators.

What's in it for you? After the training, you'll return to your hometown and your chosen civilian job, but you will also be an officer and pilot in the Air Force Reserve, flying with a Reserve unit at a base close to your home. The Reserve units train on a weekend each month and serve two weeks of active duty for training each year.

At present pay rates, a man who entered the Air Force Reserve eight years ago at age 22 would be earning approximately $2,800 a year as a flying officer with the Reserve. This supplemental income, in addition to your civilian salary, will grow until retirement. If you are the young man the Air PILOTS WANTED: These trainees are satisfying one of their life's ambitions, learning to fly. The Air Force Reserve needs pilots. If you qualify, the Air Force Reserve can offer valuable training, extra income and a rewarding second career as a pilot with a reserve unit located near, or in your hometown.

Force Reserve is looking for, thoughts of retirement may be a long way off, but the benefits shouldn't be overlooked. After reaching age 60, our man who joined the Air Force Reserve at age 22 and participated until his retirement could expect to receive about $350 a month.

What do you do? If you believe you meet the requirements, write to Major William J. Jefferson, Jr., Equal Opportunity Officer, Hq. USAF (REL), Washington, D. C. 20330. Major Jefferson will give you details on the program, and advise you on application procedures.

ROBERT JONES

Funeral services for Robert Jones, age 63, 2426 N. Kenwood Ave. were held Monday, April 12, in St. Mark Baptist Church. The burial was in New Crown Cemetery. He died Wednesday, April 7, in his home. He was a retired construction worker, a veteran of World War II and a member of the St. Mark Church. Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Annie Jones.

Your professional hairdresser knows the answer...

How do you keep a 'Fro free from problems?

An "afro" or "natural" looks best when every strand of hair stands independently full and attractively healthy. But, kinky or frizzy hair mats and tangles easily and can break off in everyday combing. Because professional hairdressers realize this most of them use Clairol condition--The Beauty Prescription for Troubled Hair--as well as Clairol Hair-So-New*, the no rinse creme rinse for general softening.

They know condition* leaves dry hair shiny and plump. What's more, it silks and helps mend split ends. Hair is left stronger to withstand even chemical straighteners and the picking method of combing an "afro." A condition* treatment only takes a few minutes. And you can feel the difference in your hair right away.

For easy combing most professional hairdressers soften the hair first with a product like Hair-So-New. It temporarily relaxes hair so tangles and snarls quickly go away and scalp feels soothed. Combing is easy...and fewer ends are broken.

When you wear your hair in a "natural," you'll want it to look beautiful. The more beautiful it is, the better it expresses your black identity. That can be a proud distinction. But, whether you wear your hair "naturally" or straightened, see your professional hairdresser about giving you a treatment with Clairol condition* and Clairol Hair-So-New. You'll be so glad you did.

N.Y. household workers form AFL-CIO Union

NEW YORK -- Organized labor and churches recently began a drive here to bring household workers into the labor movement. The Professional Household Workers' Union, Local 1 was chartered recently by the New York Division of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, AFL-CIO.

During a recent Conference on Household Employment convened by the City Commission on Human Rights it was reported that the unionization effort has wide support.

The new union has opened an office downtown and engaged a full-time executive director, Mrs. Ruth Benjamin. It retains a paid organizer who has recruited 200 members and all of these have been trained as volunteer organizers.

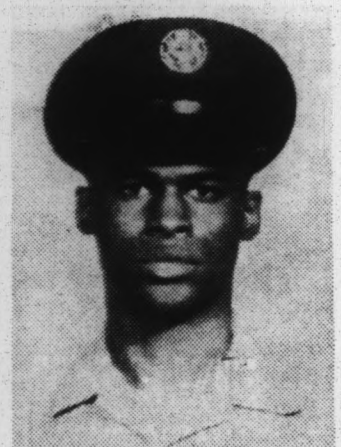

The volunteer organizers have carried the drive to churches in the poverty areas where household workers are members. Many pastors have joined the movement helping to bring members into the Local.

The drive is said to have the support of the Lindsay, Rockefeller and Nixon administrations. One of the leaders of the Negro community, Mrs. Elizabeth Duncan Koonitz, holds the post of director of the U.S. Women's Bureau in the Nixon administration. Along with Mrs. Eleanor Holmes Norton of the City's Human Rights Commission, Mrs. Koonitz has contributed to the campaign or drive for a change in household employment.

The move to improve the situation of household workers gained impetus when the U.S. Women's Bureau discovered that they were an important part of the working poor. Mrs. Koonitz has estimated that in 1970 more than 1.5 million people were employed in private house work. Of these 64 per cent of the women were black and over the nation as a whole their average weekly earnings were $66.

AIRMAN HOWARD BONDS

SAN ANTONIO -- Airman Howard L. Bonds, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Bonds of 217 Marshall St., Gary, Ind., has completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex. He has been assigned to Chanute AFB, Ill., for training as a fire protection specialist. Airman Bonds is a 1970 graduate of Westside High School.

Postal workers, five unions move toward merger

Following an agreement in principle, national merger talks, five unions in the U.S. Postal Service may be formed into a single new union of more than a half million members, James W. Burnett Jr., announced here this week.

Burnett is president of Local 130, UFPC, AFL-CIO of this city. He stated that the impetus for "one big union" was enhanced in Washington recently when the Presidents of the UFPC, an AFL-CIO affiliate and the independent National Postal Union (NPU) agreed on merger terms.

The five postal unions will ask their respective memberships to approve a new constitution creating a brand new union to be known as the American Postal Workers Union, AFL-CIO, he stated.

In addition to the United Federation of Postal Clerks and the National Postal Union, the other unions currently in the merger pact are: The Post Office Motor Vehicle Employees, the Special Delivery Messengers and the Post Office General Services and Maintenance Employees.

Mr. Burnett said the mergers are deemed vital by postal union leaders to cope on "anywhere near even terms in future collective bargaining with the vast power of the new semi-independent U.S. Postal Service."

Black inventors of land have made their marks

NEW YORK -- Today, more than ever before, business and industry are engaged in a battle for survival. The focus of this battle centers on new product development, and business leaders are learning to recognize the individual innovator as a rich source of new ideas and inventions. Among these inventors, the number of creative black men and women is rapidly on the increase.

The world has had many well-known inventors such as Dr. George Washington Carver who revolutionized and revitalized the dying agriculture of the South, Percy Julian, a chemist, who brought the healing drug cortisone to our attention, and Jan Matzeliger, who invented the shoe-lasting machine, upon which is based the modern shoe industry, both in this country and, in fact, the entire world.

These individuals, and many more gifted black men and women played important roles in this country's progress. Today, the black people are just as imaginative, and invention-minded as ever and their innovations are constantly making their way to the Raymond Lee Organization, 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

There is, of course, the problem of communication between the inventor in his basement workshop and the new product manager in his corporate office. Lawrence Peska, vice president of the Raymond Lee Organization, a New York firm which specializes in international invention development says that, "Creative persons are often unaware of the steps which need to be taken to ensure the recognition of accomplishment which their invention deserves. We advise and assist the inventor toward the commercialization of his invention." Mr. Peska explains further that many products being marketed today have the benefit of a patent or patent pending status.

In fact, many thousands of inventors are being granted patents by the U.S. Government annually. The number of patents registered in Washington has approached the four million mark and rising at a rate of approximately 1700 weekly. Why the U.S. "monopoly" on patent? Maybe it's because Americans have a healthy desire to own a monopoly all their own. Which is just what a patent is -- at least for the seventeen years that the U.S. Government lets you have it as all yours.

Experts in the field have agreed there are six types of inventions that are prime for today's consumer market. Six different targets to shoot at any one of them could make you successful. They are: New games for both adults and children. Car improvements and safety devices. Home work-savers for the housewife. Hand-tool innovations and do-it-yourself items. Recreational and hobby ideas. Protection devices for the home, car and individuals.

New inventions come from black inventors every day, and The Raymond Lee Organization encourages these men and women to turn their ideas or frustrations into inventions. They may seem off-beat to you at first, but many ideas have a marketable twist and that's what, hopefully turns it into a selling idea worth thousands of dollars.

Negro contribution to U.S.A. culture cited by woman author

EAST LANSING, Mich.—White America has ignored a humanistic body of Afro-American literature that sheds light on many problems dividing the country today, a noted black author said recently at Michigan State University.

Dr. Margaret Walker Alexander was one of the featured speakers during MSU's University College Symposium "On Becoming Human."

After tracing the origins of black literature as far back as the Egypt of the Pharaohs, Dr. Alexander pointed out that many whites believe the black writer is a recent phenomenon, when actually "black people have been creating and publishing a body of literature in this country since colonial days."

She said, "In his contributions to American culture, the black man has remained singularly faithful to the living truth of the human spirit. In his constant search for freedom, peace and human dignity he has continued to speak loudly against social injustice, human slavery, open oppression of mind and body, violent intimidation and humiliating indignities."

"But the tragic fact remains that white America has never listened. She seems to have lost the capacity to hear with an inner ear the voice of suffering and despair, or the clarion call for freedom that the downtrodden, oppressed black masses are daily shouting to the white world."

Dr. Alexander said black literature has always been permeated with ideas of revolt against artifice, sterility, self-consciousness, contrived morality and phoney ethics. It has always been natural, freely experimental, always humanistic, most of all authentic of what is most real in the black experience.

"Afro-Americans know why the quality of life in America has gone sour, she said. 'It is because her value are based on money and industry. It is because racism, militarism, materialism, and financial imperialism have gained a stranglehold on this society.'"

Dr. Alexander concluded: "I would not be true to the humanistic tradition of Afro-American literature if I were pessimistic and did not believe in the goodness of the future. Change will come and there is hope for a better world. But that world must be founded on a new humanism instead of the old racism."

"Now Africa" seeks grants to relieve poverty in South

DETROIT—The Republic of New Africa recently opened here a national campaign to reverse black unemployment and end urban despair.

In a special appearance before the Common Council of the City of Detroit, Brother Imari Abubakari Obadele I, president of the New Orleans-based Republic, called on Detroit to lead the way for the whole United States in paying reparations to black people for use in building New Communities in Mississippi. Brother Imari told the city's law-makers: "There can be little doubt that something must be done. The haphazard growth of American cities, the slow adaptation of economic mechanisms to reality, and persistent racism have turned the Welfare program into an albatross about the neck of urban American society, finished the cities as viable units of governmental economic activity, and created conditions which are leading certainly to repression and violent revolution - to be specific, to racial repression and racial war."

"We have seen four decades of Welfare fail to halt a drift toward these odious ends. We have seen New Deal and Fair Deal and New Frontiers fail to halt this drift; indeed, we have seen the drift become a flood. We have seen six years of Poverty Programs fail to halt it; the flood is now an avalanche. Two weeks ago your President Richard Nixon called on the U.S. Congress to provide 800 million dollars to make jobs - for the first year only - for 200,000 persons on Welfare. The jobs are to be made-up jobs: street - cleaning, park maintenance, and so forth - jobs devoid of real purpose, jobs envisioning no ounce of training for socially needed skills, no iota of social rehabilitation. It is more of the same."

"The RNA New Community program is a distinct break. It says to President Nixon - and to the City of Detroit - instead of spending 800 million dollars for 'lunch money,' which yields no capital increase and would have been re-invested year, like money thrown into a bottomless pit, let us take four years of the same amount of money, use it in the development of New African Ujamaa (that is to say, labor - intensive, cooperative economics), and we will provide for the same 200,000 families the basis of a continuing capital increase: all the schools, housing, health centers, farmland and equipment, industry and start materials, and positive social reconstruction needed."

"We would do this through an allocation of resources... whereby the infra-structure of a New Community for 500 families can be provided for $7,500,000."

Brother Imari asked the City of Detroit to pass a resolution urging the Michigan State Legislature to provide $7,500,000 for a pilot program - one New African community - for 500 families in Mississippi, plus transportation costs. The Republic also asked Detroit to back up its resolution with $200,000 to be used to help defray transportation costs. Further the Republic asked the Motor City Councilmen to urge the U.S. Congress to provide $10,000 in reparations to every black person, $4,000 of such reparations would go directly to the person and $6,000 would go to the black nation, the Republic of New Africa, for building the nation. The Council will hear further legal arguments before making a decision later this month.

The special Council appearance was arranged by the city's three black Councilmen: Reverend Nicholas Hood, Robert Tindal, and Ernest Browne. In addition to Brother Imari the Republic was also represented by Brother Chokwe Lumumba, Counsel of the Republic for Detroit, Brother Chema Hallisi, Consul of the Republic for Grand

Gulf Oil Corp. sponsors computer job training plan

SAN DIEGO, Since early last spring, a 40-ft. trailer truck has rumbled the streets of San Diego with a most unusual cargo. Inside the old trailer, which formerly hauled produce to California food stores, is a modern, well-equipped classroom and a general purpose computer. On the outside is a sign: "Computer Jobs Through Training."

CJTT is a project designed to train disadvantaged young people in semi-technical and business computer programming. It is operated by the University of California at San Diego with support from Gulf Energy & Environmental Systems, a Gulf Oil Corporation division, and other local industrial firms.

The mobile van makes it possible to take the classroom directly into the students' own communities. This means that students do not have to travel long distances to get to class, and it also means that the computer equipment can be used efficiently to serve many people throughout the city.

During the past two years, while CJTT has been under development, five introductory programming classes have been conducted for high school and junior high school students.

Early in 1970, the project began its first class for young adults on a night basis in San Ysidro and National City, near the Mexican border.

This class will soon begin placing graduates in programming and other computer-related jobs, or sending them on to local colleges and junior colleges for further training. In fact, two students from this class have already enrolled in local colleges.

Gulf's involvement in CJTT dates back to late 1969, when the program was first brought to the attention of Gulf Energy & Environmental Systems by Granger Morgan, a young UCSD PhD graduate, who serves as the project's director.

Financial support from Gulf made it possible for CJTT to procure and recondition the military surplus tractor which pulls the classroom van, as well as to hire Bob Sadler, a young, black programmer, who serves as a van instructor.

English teachers in Ohio school meet in Cincinnati

WILBERFORCE, Ohio--Should poor people and middle-class people be expected to speak and write with equal correctness? Do black ghetto residents and Appalachian whites use colloquial terms that should be incorporated into standard English?

Controversial questions such as these will be discussed March 25 through 27 in Cincinnati where more than one thousand English teachers from all 50 states will gather for the 22nd annual meeting of the Conference on College Composition and Communication. English teachers from many Ohio colleges and universities plan to attend.

The Rhetoric of Pornography, Black Culture, and the Position of Women are among the themes of workshops and panels to be held.

Discussion groups will look into Obscenity and Censorship, Political Involvement, Individual Teacher Control over Classroom Teaching Content and 11 other topics. Among demonstrations scheduled are those on Teaching English as a Second Language, Structured and Unstructured Composition, Role Playing, and others.

Distinguished speakers to appear include Edgar Z. Friedenberg, author of "The Vanishing Adolescent" and

FLIP WILSON NAMED NAMH CHAIRMAN

NEW YORK, -- The popular NBC-TV star "Flip" Wilson recently was named national Assn. He succeeds Miss Celeste Holme who supported the fund drives several years with public appearances or speeches.

rapists, Michigan, and Attorney Henry Cleage. Similar requests are to be made by the Republic in some 20 states. The Republic's statement charged further: "The fruit of our labor for over 200 years in America was simply stolen from us by white Americans. The moral justification for reparations (for 'restitution,' as it were) is as clear for black people in America as for Jews in Germany."

Some of the first CJTT graduates are expected to use the computer center at Gulf E & ES for workshop sessions upon completion of the formal course, and a number of Gulf E & ES employees have assisted in the course by serving as instructor aides, and by helping to prepare copies of the course curriculum material.

To date, Gulf E & ES has been the leading industrial sponsor of the program, which has also attracted support from 12 other local business firms, two foundations, and most recently a major grant from the California State Office of Vocational Education. As a result of this growing support, three new CJTT classes are expected to start in the near future.

According to project director Morgan, computer programming has shown itself to be a natural vehicle for improving the career choices of low-income and minority youth.

"It has an aura of excitement which is important in student recruitment and motivation. More important, unlike other high entry level jobs, it requires few cultural prerequisites. What is required are basic math skills and an ability to think in a logical way. In this area of training, the disadvantaged youth is a little less disadvantaged than in other fields," he said.

Turning students on is the whole point of CJTT. Morgan explained, "Our biggest problem is not teaching the subject matter, but helping the students develop the necessary motivation and persistence," he said. "That is why the classroom van is so important. You don't motivate people by making them ride a bus to class several hours each day," he said.

Says Morgan: "The support which Gulf has provided has represented a major contribution to the development of this program, and is a perfect example of how American industry can make a meaningful and concrete contribution to the solution of our urban crisis."

English teachers in Ohio school meet in Cincinnati

"Coming of Age in America" Wallace W. Douglass of Northwestern University and Robert Zoellner of Colorado State University. Teachers at inner-city colleges in Chicago and Oakland are scheduled to speak.

Among topics to be discussed are "Racial and Cultural Bias in Textbooks," "Political Muzzling: Its Effect on the Classroom," "The Politics of Rhetoric," and "Behaviorism and Accountability."

The teachers are encouraged to bring and read their own poetry at special evening meetings. Films will be shown and students will participate.

New youth crime curbs sought by Pres. Nixon

WASHINGTON, -- President Nixon early this week sent the Congress a report calling for a model system for prevention of juvenile crime, rehabilitation and other youthful development activities in inner-city and slum areas, the suburbs, rural regions and on college campuses.

The report from the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Youth Development and Delinquency Prevention Administration. Concerning the report Mr. Nixon stated the rate of juvenile crimes has climbed sharply during the last decade despite heavier investment of federal funds in programs to combat delinquency.

Able, dedicated grandmother of 10, directs Los Angeles HOC

LOS ANGELES--Marnesba T. Tackett is a rare combination of a hard driving business executive and completely feminine woman. Director of housing development for the Housing Opportunities Center (HOC) of Greater Los Angeles Mrs. Tackett ramrods one of the toughest, demanding and unique operations ever headed by a Black woman.

A doting grandmother often, she maintains her concern for family, home and strictly distasteful matters while exercising her considerable ability in the complex business world of housing development.

HOC is an Office of Economic Opportunity funded agency sponsored by the Community Relations Conference of Southern California.

Organized in 1968, its initial emphasis was fighting racial discrimination in housing through education and community organization and maintaining a center for housing information.

By mid-1969 the agency had acquired sufficient technical know how that enabled it to

Famed novelist lends support to black power

CHICAGO--Black power is a "logical expression of an honored tradition in American history and as such should be encouraged," contends the leading author and novelist, James A. Michener.

"It will be a happy day for this nation when blacks exert their full political power," declared Michener. "We will all be better off."

Writing in the April issue of Sepia magazine, leading black monthly publication, the famed winner of the Pulitzer Prize, whose books include such best sellers as "Hawaii," "The Source" and "Tales of the South Pacific," sees black power as necessary for Negroes to win their full rights as Americans.

Michener in an article in Sepia, entitled "How To Think About Race," points out that not a single minority group "was able to establish itself properly until the day when it used its economic and political leverage intelligently. Black power must be seen in this context. It will be a happy day for this nation when our blacks exert the leverage they should: we will all be better off."

Sen. Brooke shys from challenge by third party

WASHINGTON, D. C.--The newly organized Massachusetts Conservative party move to prevent his reelection could hurt him. U. S. Sen. Edward W. However, when the party elected James L. Buckley to the Senate last November, defeating liberal Republican Charles E. Goodell in a three-way race, they stood up and took notice of "trends of the times."

Sen. Brooke stated that a three-way race could be very harmful to him. If the conservatives could draw off votes that he would expect Brooke has been branded by conservatives of his state as the "prince of liberals," right after Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Democrat of the State of Massachusetts.

Sen. Brooke only Negro U. S. Senator to be elected and seated since the Reconstruction Era will be seeking his second term. But registered Democratic outnumber registered Republicans in the "Bay State" and he may have to offset the advent of a third party.

Rare bits from Adeline

BY ADELINE A. BEINING

Indications are that about 20 per cent more hogs will be marketed this spring than were last year at the same time. That's why you've seen pork being specialized at very reasonable prices, and you can expect to see such features continue for the next two months at least.

Prices of some cuts of pork have greater ups and downs during the year than others. Processed cuts, such as ready-to-eat hams, vary less during the year than fresh cuts of pork.

Some cuts of pork are better sources of lean meat than a few other cuts. One way to compare the cost of different cuts of pork is to consider only the cost of the lean meat. The less expensive cuts, such as the picnic, are often more economical sources of lean meat than a ham, loin roasts, and chops. Bacon is a costly source of lean meat, but it is usually purchased for the flavor and texture of the fat as well as the lean.

When selecting fresh pork, look for a light, grayish-pink color. The meat should be fine in texture, smooth and velvety, and should contain intermingled flecks of fat. The bones should have red, porous centers. The outside fat should be white and relatively firm. A high proportion of lean meat to fat and bone is more desirable.

A suitable quality of smoked and canned pork can be selected by using packer brand names as a guide.

A shank or butt half or ham has had no center cut slices removed.

A shank or butt end has had some center cut slices removed. The butt part of the ham has a higher proportion of lean meat to fat and bone than the shank part.

The name picnic or cala is given to the lower half of the pork shoulder. It generally has a lower proportion of lean meat to fat and bone than does ham.

Rib end and loin end pork roasts or chops have a higher proportion of fat and bone than the center cut roasts or chops.

Except for products in unopened cans, store all pork in the coldest part of the refrigerator.

Wrap fresh pork loosely to allow some drying of the surface. This retards spoilage. Plan to use fresh pork within a few days after purchasing. Use variety meats and ground pork within a day or two after purchasing.

Cured hams, picnics, and bacon will keep one to two weeks under refrigeration. If you want to freeze fresh pork, remember that the recommended storage time at 0 degrees F. is 3 to 6 months. If you freeze ham, which really is not recommended, store it no longer than one month to maintain quality.

to the March 29 grand indictments. No trial date was set. Floyd V. Lindley, 51, a former guard appeared without a lawyer and was given 10 days to obtain one.

Philip Melington Jr., an attorney for the other eight defendants, asked 45 days to prepare motions.

Guard Capt. Jason L. Huckleby, 44, is under indictment on a second count, carrying possible life imprisonment, because the government charged his orders resulted in loss of life. The charges against the other guards are misdemeanors.

Defendants beside Huckleby and Lindley are guards Ernest L. Brown, Ray C. Brown, Ray C. Tinsler, Willis H. Dennis, Fallon Combs, and the captain's brother, Edward Huckleby, a reformatory plumber Charles H. Imel, 56.

mer Alabama Governor George C. Wallace nationally.

"We were assured that the party had no connection with George C. Wallace whatsoever," said Mrs. Bernard.

"But since then I've learned that the party was actually formed to support Wallace in the last general election and I want no part of it."

The American Party was formed here in 1968 in order that the name of Wallace could be placed on the ballot.

Both women said they were asked to run by Larry J. Halmeza, the party's candidate for mayor of Indianapolis.

"But he told us the party had nothing to do with Wallace so we agreed," said Mrs. Young. "But now we want to withdraw our names because we've found out the party is made up of Wallace people."

and two blacks ran on a radical coalition ticket for the City Council. A black mayoral candidate ran as an ally of but not a formal part of the coalition.

All but one of the coalition's city council candidates won, as did the mayoral candidate, Warren Widener, who squeaked in by only 56 votes.

The issue was "radicalism" rather than race, but the support of the black community was essential to the coalition's success, as it was last year to the primary victory last year of Ronald V. Delums.

In most municipal elections over the last five years, black candidates and white liberals have had to pull some support from moderate whites to win. Berkeley, a university town, is typical in that blacks and white liberals have been able to win without making any substantial appeal to the center.

If Berkeley is unique in some respect, or nearly so, Chicago is unique in another.

One of the reasons that Mayor Richard J. Daley so thoroughly trounced his insurgent opponent, Richard E. Friedman, who ran as a Republican was the failure of the black wards to give Mr. Friedman any appreciable support. The Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, perhaps Chicago's most charismatic black leader, endorsed Mr. Friedman, but to no avail. Mr. Daley swept the black wards.

"It will change in Chicago," said one black national political leader, "but it God only knows when. Not very soon."

Mayor Daley's habit, over the years has been to turn over political power to the black community a very little bit at a time, just fast enough to prevent a rebellion. This year, he put a black on the city ticket for the first time - Joseph Bertrand, the candidate for treasurer. As usual it worked.

Radical issues will play a part in at least two other important mayoral elections later this year. Philadelphia's Democratic primary May 18, and Gary's primary May 4.

In Philadelphia, Representative William J. Green, a liberal is attempting to defeat Frank L. Rizzo, a former police commissioner, and a two other opponents. Mr. Rizzo, who has a reputation as a "tough cop," once described members of the Black Panther party as "yellow dogs."

Political experts in Pennsylvania consider Mr. Rizzo the favorite, although Mr. Green appears to have gained lately.

In Gary, Mayor Richard G. Hatcher, one of the nation's first black mayors, is running against another black, Dr. Alexander Williams, the Lake County coroner. The city is more than half black, but Dr. Williams is expected to appeal more to the outnumbered whites than the more militant Mayor Hatcher.

Although municipal elections are often watched by Presidential hopefuls for signs of trends, last week's voting did not seem to offer anything definitive. However, Mr. Hatcher, Mr. Green and other blacks and white liberals should lose in the months ahead, the political air will be full of code phrases - like "blacklash" and "law and order" - once again.

by the Police Gang Intelligence unit, reportedly after police were tipped that the alleged solicitations to commit murder had been made.

Secrecy has surrounded the arrests and it became even tighter Monday after it was learned that Dillard and Harris had appeared in court on the charge.

Deputy Police Supt. John Kelly, chief of the bureau of inspection services of which gang intelligence is a part, refused to comment about details of the arrests, citing court decisions which protect the rights of the defendants. He did say that others are still being sought in the alleged plot but declined to disclose how many others might be involved.

It was believed that the alleged plot was hatched in an attempt to stir up racial strife with the perpetrators hoping to steal weapons and other materials during the ensuing confusion.

Mayor Daley has been vacationing in Florida since he was re-elected to office last Tuesday.

The Rev. Mr. Jackson, who is on leave as national director of Operation Breadbasket, the economic arm of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, has been assigned two police body guards for several months. The guards were assigned after several threats were made to the Rev. Jackson over the phone.
